Disorders caused by gluten include gluten ataxia, celiac disease, dermatitis herpetiformis, wheat allergy, and non celiac gluten sensitivity. Gluten related disorders can be classified as being allergic, autoimmune, or non autoimmune disorders. Symptoms of gluten related disorders include abdominal pain or discomfort, bloating, diarrhea, and constipation. Extra intestinal symptoms can include fatigue, headache, numbness or tingling sensation in hands and feet, brain fog, and joint pain. Gluten-Related Disorders: Pathogenesis, Diagnosis, and Treatment Simone Baldi, Amedeo Amedei, Isabel Comino, Ángela Ruiz-Carnicer, Carolina Sousa, 2025-03-26 Celiac disease CD is an autoimmune condition triggered by gluten consumption in individuals with a genetic predisposition It is characterized by villous atrophy intraepithelial lymphocytosis and crypt hyperplasia of the small bowel This condition is marked by chronic inflammation which can be resolved by eliminating gluten containing foods from the diet known as a gluten free diet GFD Although CD primarily affects the small intestine it exhibits a wide range of symptoms including both intestinal and extraintestinal symptoms which can also range from mild to severe and even include subclinical forms Based on more recent epidemiological data loss of gluten tolerance may occur at the time of its introduction into the diet or at any time in life suggesting that other environmental factors must play a role in CD development Specifically an imbalance of the gut microbiota composition and a consequent dysregulated intestinal metabolic profile including an altered short chain fatty acids production has recently been related to CD onset Even non celiac gluten wheat sensitivity NCGS WS is a clinical entity characterized by intestinal and extraintestinal symptoms induced by gluten ingestion but it occurs in the absence of wheat allergy or CD The pathogenesis of NCGS WS is still uncertain since several different substances other than gluten such as fermentable oligo di monosaccharides and polyols may be involved in its onset Lastly concerning CD celiac disease it has also been suggested that impaired intestinal barrier function increased permeability and gut dysbiosis are important factors in the development of NCGS or WS development Gluten related disorders are heterogeneous conditions and thus require a multidisciplinary approach for a better understanding and management The absence of a conclusive diagnosis often results in decreased adherence to GFD which can negatively affect the health of those who truly suffer from gluten related disorders
