New Literary Hybrids in the Age of Multimedia Expression Marcel Cornis-Pope, 2014-11-15 Begun in 2010 as part of the Histories of Literatures in European Languages series sponsored by the International Comparative Literature Association the current project on New Literary Hybrids in the Age of Multimedia Expression recognizes the global shift toward the visual and the virtual in all areas of textuality the printed verbal text is increasingly joined with the visual often electronic text This shift has opened up new domains of human achievement in art and culture The international roster of 24 contributors to this volume pursue a broad range of issues under four sets of questions that allow a larger conversation to emerge both inside the volume's sections and between them The four sections cover 1 Multimedia Productions in Theoretical and Historical Perspective 2 Regional and Intercultural Projects 3 Forms and Genres and 4 Readers and Rewriters in Multimedia Environments The essays included in this volume are examples of the kinds of projects and inquiries that have become possible at the interface between literature and other media new and old They emphasize the extent to which hypertextual multimedia and virtual reality technologies have enhanced the sociality of reading and writing enabling more people to interact than ever before At the same time however they warn that as long as these technologies are used to reinforce old habits of reading writing they will deliver modest results One of the major tasks pursued by the contributors to this volume is to integrate literature in the global informational environment where it can function as an imaginative partner teaching its interpretive competencies to other components of the cultural landscape

Expressive Processing Noah Wardrip-Fruin, 2012-02-10 From the complex city planning game SimCity to the virtual therapist Eliza how computational processes open possibilities for understanding and creating digital media What matters in understanding digital media Is looking at the external appearance and audience experience of software enough or should we look further In Expressive Processing Noah Wardrip-Fruin argues that understanding what goes on beneath the surface the computational processes that make digital media function is essential Wardrip-Fruin looks at expressive processing by examining specific works of digital media ranging from the simulated therapist Eliza to the complex city planning game SimCity Digital media he contends offer particularly intelligible examples of things we need to understand about software in general if we understand for instance the capabilities and histories of artificial intelligence techniques in the context of a computer game we can use that understanding to judge the use of similar techniques in such higher stakes social contexts as surveillance The Aesthetic of Play Brian Upton, 2021-02-02 A game designer considers the experience of play why games have rules and the relationship of play and narrative The impulse toward play is very ancient not only pre cultural but pre human zoologists have identified play behaviors in turtles and in chimpanzees Games have existed since antiquity 5 000 year old board games have been recovered from Egyptian tombs And yet we still lack a critical language for thinking about play Game designers are better at answering small questions Why is this battle boring than big ones What does this game mean In this book the game designer Brian Upton analyzes the experience of play how playful activities unfold from moment to moment and how the rules we adopt constrain that unfolding Drawing on games that range from Monopoly to Dungeons Dragons to Guitar Hero Upton develops a framework for understanding play introducing a set of critical tools that can help us analyze games and game designs and identify ways in which they succeed or fail Gaming Rhythms Tom Apperley, 2010-09-20 Global gaming networks are heterogenous collectives of localized practices not unified commercial products Shifting the analysis of digital games to local specificities that build and perform the global and general Gaming Rhythms employs ethnographic work conducted in Venezuela and Australia to account for the material experiences of actual game players This book explores the materiality of digital play across diverse locations and argues that the dynamic relation between the everyday life of the player and the experience of digital game play can only be understood by examining play practices in their specific situations Website
