

Lab 2-1 Catalyst 2960 and 3560 Series Static VLANS, VLAN Trunking, and VTP Domain and Modes

Objective

Set up a VTP domain, create and maintain VLANs, and use Inter-Switch Link (ISL) and 802.1Q trunking on Cisco Catalyst 2960 and 3560 series Ethernet switches using command-line interface (CLI) mode.

Scenario

VLANs must logically segment a network by function, team, or application, regardless of the physical location of the users. All end stations in a particular IP subnet are often associated with a specific VLAN. VLAN membership on a switch that is assigned manually for each interface is known as static VLAN membership.

Trunking, or connecting switches, and the VLAN Trunking Protocol (VTP) are used to segment the network. VTP manages the addition, deletion, and renaming of VLANs on the entire network from a single central switch. VTP minimizes configuration inconsistencies that can cause problems, such as duplicate VLAN names, incorrect VLAN-type specifications, and security violations.

Step 1

Power up the switches and use the standard process for establishing a HyperTerminal console connection from a workstation to each switch in your pod. If you are connecting remotely to your switches, follow the instructions that have been supplied by your instructor.
