from the author's previous works this book is the one resource you need to succeed in the green building marketplace. With a sound grounding in contemporary marketing theory and practice, the book assembles hard-to-find information to assist executives and partners in design and construction firms in crafting competitive strategies that build on their firm strengths while shoring up their weaknesses. Since most design and construction firms specialize in particular market sectors, the book systematically examines the important market segments for green buildings. It also presents key business case justifications for green buildings that help architects, engineers, and builders to understand client motivations and respond to them with appropriate marketing tactics and communications strategies. The book examines how the green building market is adopting certain new products and design approaches, information that will help manufacturers and product sales teams to craft appropriate marketing strategies. The book also helps owners and developers understand the green building business case and to find out what other leading-edge firms and projects have learned how to market and sell green buildings and green developments in a highly competitive marketplace.

Designing Commercial Interiors Christine M. Piotrowski, 2025-02-11 Practical comprehensive resource for commercial interior design covering research, execution, safety, sustainability, and legal considerations. Designing Commercial Interiors explores the entire design process of commercial projects from planning to execution to teach the vital considerations that will make each project a success. This book delivers a solid understanding of the myriad factors in play throughout designing restaurants, offices, lodging, retail, and healthcare facilities. Updates to the newly revised Fourth Edition include changes to office space design to promote flexibility post-pandemic, considerations for work and interior design, the latest industry certification requirements, sustainable design considerations, and safety/legal codes. Updated supplemental instructor's resources, including a revised instructor's manual with sample test questions and exercises, are available on the companion website. A list of terms fundamental to each chapter has also been added at the end of each chapter. Other topics covered in Designing Commercial Interiors include: A thorough review of relevant design and research skills and methods; How the global marketplace shapes designers' business activities; Product specification principles; WELL and LEED certification and credentials; Accessible design in facilities; Elements of evidence-based design and adaptive reuse; Project manager responsibilities; Working with stakeholders and special considerations for executive-level clients; Project delivery methods including design-bid-build, design-build, and integrated design. Designing Commercial Interiors is an authoritative and complete reference on the subject for university and community college students in programs related to interior design and those preparing for the NCIDQ exam. The text is also valuable as a general reference for interior designers less familiar with commercial interior design.

LEED--EB for Existing Buildings, 2005-01-01 Integrated Sustainable Design of Buildings Paul Appleby, 2012-10-12 This book aims to provide a guide to members of design and masterplanning teams on how to deliver sustainable development and buildings cost effectively, meeting current and emerging UK and international statutory and planning requirements. The book sets out a clear and understandable strategy that deals with all aspects of sustainable design and construction and the implications for delivery costs saleability and long term operation The extensive scope includes all aspects of environmental social and economic sustainability including strategies to reduce carbon emissions and the impact of climate change The Renewable City Peter Droege,2006 Despite the intolerable costs of climate change and inevitably declining oil natural gas and uranium reserves the vast majority of cities and urban communities are planned and managed as if such existential crises did not exist Hence the transition from fossil fuel dominated cities to an urban future marked by a radically new renewable energy infrastructure requires entirely new tools and frames of decision making This is an original guide to an entirely unprecedented urban transformation to cities and towns powered by renewable energy Squarely focused on action it supports design planning and management decisions and serves as a practical guide to practitioners academics and political leaders in communities and cities worldwide as a useful and well structured reference text It is built on the most successful of past and present urban sustainability trends and emerging infrastructure directions presenting renewable energy applications as offering new and inevitable approaches to urban infrastructure planning and the design of cities
