Cycles Of Destruction Volume 1:

Business Cycle Theory, Part I Volume 1 Harald Hagemann, 2024-08-23 These volumes contain key texts from the period 1860-1939 on Business Cycle Theory. It covers a long list of Anglo-Saxon writers as well as the most important contributions from the French, German, Italian, Russian, and Swedish debates. The older business cycle theories presented here richly elucidate the complex interaction between real monetary and structural change factors in economic systems, the close association between historical and analytical methods, providing a fertile source of inspiration for current researchers in the field. In Volume I of this edition, a number of chapters from early classics are presented. After 1860, the idea of a regular business cycle formulated by Clément Juglar was increasingly recognised as a recurrent phenomenon. This edition begins with Juglar's analysis of crises from a monetary standpoint and John Stuart Mill's analysis of the role of an excessive credit expansion as a characteristic and fuel for speculation. Also included are two key chapters of Marx's work: his growth model as it is specified in the extended schemes of reproduction and his comments on crisis theory. The final sections present key chapters by Jevons on his theory of sun spots, Hobson and Mummery's linking of depressions in trade with insufficient consumption and excessive thrift, Marshall on price fluctuations as the prevailing endogenous characteristic of cyclical fluctuations, and his belief in the existence of a ten-year cycle. Mitchell's analysis of the imbalance between costs and prices that develops over the cycle, Kitchin's distinction between movements of economic variables composed of either major or trade cycles and minor cycles averaging 40 months, and Kuznets' attempt to give a rationale to the secondary secular movements he discovered.

Studies in Rabbinic Narratives, Volume 1 Jeffrey L. Rubenstein, 2021-03-31 Explore new theoretical tools and lines of analysis of rabbinic stories. Rabbinic literature includes hundreds of stories and brief narrative traditions. These narrative traditions often take the form of biographical anecdotes that recount a deed or event in the life of a rabbi. Modern scholars consider these narratives as didactic fictions: stories used to teach lessons, promote rabbinic values, and grapple with the tensions and conflicts of rabbinic life. Using methods drawn from literary and cultural theory, including feminist, structuralist, Marxist, and psychoanalytic methods, contributors analyze narratives from the Babylonian Talmud, midrash, Mishnah, and other rabbinic compilations to shed light on their meanings, functions, and narrative art. Contributors include Julia Watts Belser, Beth Berkowitz, Dov Kahane, Jane L. Kanarek, Tzvi Novick, James Adam Redfield, Jay Rovner, Jeffrey L. Rubenstein, Zvi Septimus, Dov Weiss, and Barry Scott Wimpfheimer.

The Institutes of Biblical Law Vol. 1 R. J. Rushdoony, 2009-11-16 To attempt to study Scripture without studying its law is to deny it. To attempt to understand Western civilization apart from the impact of Biblical law within it and upon it is to seek a fictitious history and to reject twenty centuries and their progress. The Institutes of Biblical Law has as its purpose a reversal of the present trend; it is called Institutes in the older meaning of the that word i e fundamental principles here of law because it is intended as a beginning as an instituting consideration of that law which must govern society and which shall govern society under God To understand Biblical law it is necessary to understand also certain basic characteristics of that law In it certain broad premises or principles are declared These are declarations of basic law The Ten Commandments give us such declarations A second characteristics of Biblical law is that the major portion of the law is case law i e the illustration of the basic principle in terms of specific cases These specific cases are often illustrations of the extent of the application of the law that is by citing a minimal type of case the necessary jurisdictions of the law are revealed The law then asserts principles and cites cases to develop the implications of those principles with is purpose and direction the restitution of God s order Angelus
