Achieving Nutrient and Sediment Reduction Goals in the Chesapeake Bay National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Water Science and Technology Board, Committee on the Evaluation of Chesapeake Bay Program Implementation for Nutrient Reduction to Improve Water Quality, 2011-09-26 The Chesapeake Bay is North America's largest and most biologically diverse estuary as well as an important commercial and recreational resource However excessive amounts of nitrogen phosphorus and sediment from human activities and land development have disrupted the ecosystem causing harmful algae blooms degraded habitats and diminished populations of many species of fish and shellfish In 1983 the Chesapeake Bay Program CBP was established based on a cooperative partnership among the U S Environmental Protection Agency EPA the state of Maryland and the commonwealths of Pennsylvania and Virginia and the District of Columbia to address the extent complexity and sources of pollutants entering the Bay In 2008 the CBP launched a series of initiatives to increase the transparency of the program and heighten its accountability and in 2009 an executive order injected new energy into the restoration In addition as part of the effort to improve the pace of progress and increase accountability in the Bay restoration a two year milestone strategy was introduced aimed at reducing overall pollution in the Bay by focusing on incremental short term commitments from each of the Bay jurisdictions The National Research Council NRC established the Committee on the Evaluation of Chesapeake Bay Program Implementation for Nutrient Reduction in Improve Water Quality in 2009 in response to a request from the EPA The committee was charged to assess the framework used by the states and the CBP for tracking nutrient and sediment control practices that are implemented in the Chesapeake Bay watershed and to evaluate the two year milestone strategy The committee was also to assess existing adaptive management strategies and to recommend improvements that could help CBP to meet its nutrient and sediment reduction goals The committee did not attempt to identify every possible strategy that could be implemented but instead focused on approaches that are not being implemented to their full potential or that may have substantial unrealized potential in the Bay watershed Because many of these strategies have policy or societal implications that could not be fully evaluated by the committee the strategies are not prioritized but are offered to encourage further consideration and exploration among the CBP partners and stakeholders

Methods of Environmental and Social Impact Assessment Peter Morris, Riki Therivel, Graham Wood, 2017-09-13

Environmental and social impact assessment ESIA is an important and often obligatory part of proposing or launching any development project. Delivering a successful ESIA needs not only an understanding of the theory but also a detailed knowledge of the methods for carrying out the processes required. Riki Therivel and Graham Wood bring together the latest advice on best practice from experienced practitioners to ensure an ESIA is carried out effectively and efficiently. This new edition explains how an ESIA works and how it should be carried out, demonstrates the links between socio-economic, cultural, environmental and ecological systems and assessments, incorporates the World Bank's IFC performance standards and best practice examples from developing as well as developed countries, includes new chapters on emerging ESIA topics such as climate change, ecosystem services, cultural impacts, resource efficiency, land acquisition and involuntary resettlement. Invaluable to undergraduate and MSc students of ESIA on planning, ecology, geography and environment courses, this internationally oriented fourth edition of Methods of Environmental and Social Impact Assessment is also of great use to planners, ESIA practitioners and professionals seeking to update their skills.
