

EXPLORING THE SOLAR SYSTEM

Ian Ridpath

WE live on a planet called Earth, one of eight major planets orbiting a fairly average star called the Sun. The difference between a star and a planet is that a star is a hot body that gives out light of its own, whereas planets are cool and shine simply by reflecting sunlight. Together, the Sun and all the objects that orbit it make up the Solar System. The Solar System is the Sun's system.

The Earth is the third planet from the Sun. It has a smaller companion going around it, called the Moon. Most planets have at least one moon of their own, and the giant planets have dozens. Only Mercury and Venus, the two planets closest to the Sun, are moonless.

In addition to the eight major planets, there is a lot of debris in the Solar System. A band of rubble called the asteroids lies between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter, while beyond Neptune is a swarm of icy bodies called the Kuiper Belt. There lies Pluto, once regarded as the ninth planet of the Solar System. Pluto is so much smaller than the other eight planets that in 2006 astronomers reclassified it as a dwarf planet. Other dwarf planets also exist in this region of the Solar System beyond Neptune.
