Climate Change And Forests: Emerging Policy And Market Opportunities Charlotte Streck, 2009 Climate Change and Forests Charlotte Streck, Robert Brett O'Sullivan, Toby Janson-Smith, Richard Tarasofsky, 2008 The Protection of Indigenous Peoples and Reduction of Forest Carbon Emissions Handa Abidin, 2015-07-14 In The Protection of Indigenous Peoples and Reduction of Forest Carbon Emissions Handa Abidin identifies three main approaches that can be used by indigenous peoples to protect their rights in the context of REDD plus. Further, he discusses how the available protection for indigenous peoples in the context of REDD plus is currently insufficient to quickly address cases where the rights of indigenous peoples have been violated through REDD plus activities. Abidin recommends the establishment of a committee and a panel on REDD plus that could convey greater benefits to the context of REDD plus and indigenous peoples as well as to wider contexts such as climate change, human rights and international law.

Research Handbook on REDD-Plus and International Law Christina Voigt, 2016-04-29 REDD Reducing Emissions of greenhouse gases from Deforestation and Forest Degradation is an important tool under the UNFCCC for incentivizing developing countries to adopt and scale up climate mitigation actions in the forest sector and for capturing and channeling the financial resources to do so. This Handbook eloquently examines the methodological guidance and emerging governance arrangements for REDD, analysing how and to what extent it is embedded in the international legal framework. Organized coherently into five parts, contributions from legal experts, international relations scholars, climate change negotiators and activists explore the history and design of REDD in the UN climate regime as well as linkages between REDD and other international agreements. The book also considers global governance for REDD, its financial dimensions including markets and investment and future developments and legal challenges. Detailed analysis from a range of angles illustrates the interplay of international norms and institutions and maps out a legal research agenda for identifying best practice solutions. Shedding light on one of the most vibrant and fast moving fields in international law, this comprehensive Handbook is essential reading for scholars of international law and international relations, policy makers in the area of climate change, REDD and land sector experts and NGOs.

The Fragmentation of Global Climate Governance Harro van Asselt, 2014-04-25 The fragmented state of global climate governance poses major challenges to policymakers and scholars alike. Through an in-depth examination of regime interactions between the international climate regime and three other regimes on clean technology, biodiversity and Wildlife Conservation in a Changing Climate Jedediah F. Brodie, Eric S. Post, Daniel F. Doak, 2024-05-31 Human induced climate change is emerging as one of the gravest threats to biodiversity in history and while a vast amount of literature on the ecological impact of climate change exists, very little has been dedicated to the management of wildlife populations and communities in the wake of unprecedented habitat changes. Wildlife Conservation in a Changing Climate is an essential resource bringing together leaders in the fields of climate change ecology, wildlife population dynamics and environmental policy to examine the impacts of climate change on populations of terrestrial vertebrates Chapters assess the details of climate change ecology including demographic implications for individual populations evolutionary responses impacts on movement patterns alterations of species interactions and predicting impacts across regions The contributors also present a number of strategies by which conservationists and wildlife managers can counter or mitigate the impacts of climate change as well as increase the resilience of wildlife populations to such changes A seminal contribution to the fields of ecology and conservation biology Wildlife Conservation in a Changing Climate will serve as the spark that ignites a new direction of discussions about and action on the ecology and conservation of wildlife in a changing climate Avoided Deforestation

Charles Palmer, Stefanie Engel, 2009-04-01 Avoided deforestation can be characterized as the use of financial incentives to reduce rates of deforestation and forest degradation with much of the focus on forests in tropical countries While avoided deforestation as a policy issue is not new the current debate in academic and policy circles on including it in future climate change mitigation strategies such as the Clean Development Mechanism is gathering pace and this debate is only likely to intensify as negotiations continue over what should be included in the successor agreement to the Kyoto Protocol which is set to expire in 2012 Up until now however the debate in terms of the scientific and economic implications of avoided deforestation has not been brought together This book aims to bring together important research findings in the area along with their policy implications whilst linking avoided deforestation to political economy as well as to the latest developments in environmental and natural resource economics Research Handbook on International Law and Natural Resources

Elisa Morgera, Kati Kulovesi, 2016-11-25 Research Handbook on International Law and Natural Resources provides a systematic and comprehensive analysis of the role of international law in regulating the exploration and exploitation of natural resources It illuminates interactions and tensions between international environmental law human rights law and international economic law It also discusses the relevance of soft law international dispute settlement as well as of various unilateral bilateral regional and transnational initiatives in the governance of natural resources While the Handbook is accessible to those approaching the subject for the first time it identifies pressing areas for further investigation that will be of interest to advanced researchers Green Grabbing: A New Appropriation of Nature James Fairhead, Melissa Leach, Ian Scoones, 2014-10-29 Across the world ecosystems are for sale Green grabbing the appropriation of land and resources for environmental ends is an emerging process of deep and growing significance A vigorous debate on land grabbing already highlights instances where green credentials are called upon to justify appropriations of land for food or fuel Yet in other cases environmental green agendas are the core drivers and goals of grabs Green grabs may be driven by biodiversity conservation biocarbon sequestration biofuels ecosystem services or ecotourism for example In some cases these agendas involve the wholesale alienation of land and in others the restructuring of rules and authority in the access use and management of resources that may have profoundly alienating effects Green grabbing builds on well known histories of colonial and neo colonial resource alienation in the name of the environment Yet it involves novel forms of valuation commodification and markets for pieces and aspects of nature and an extraordinary new range of actors and alliances This book draws together seventeen original cases from African Asian and Latin American settings to ask To what extent and in what ways do green grabs constitute new forms of appropriation of nature What political and discursive dynamics underpin green grabs How and when do appropriations on the ground emerge out of circulations of green capital What are the implications for ecologies landscapes and livelihoods Who is gaining and who is losing How are agrarian social relations rights and authority being restructured and in whose interests This book was published as a special issue of the Journal of Peasant Studies Transnational Environmental Regulation and Governance Veerle Heyvaert, 2019 A guide to the meaning of environmental regulation in an era of transnational cooperation for sustainability
