Climate Change across the Curriculum Eric J. Fretz, 2015-12-24 Climate Change across the Curriculum examines ways of thinking and conveying information about climate change across university curricula and within academic disciplines. The contributors provide methods, strategies, rationales, and theoretical justifications for teaching climate issues at the university level. The content of this book aims to introduce climate change to classes outside of the sciences as it will take a wide range of disciplines, broader institutional thinking, and experimentation to fully engage university resources and knowledge toward the mitigation of fossil fuel consumption and adaptation to the negative consequences of climate change. Climate Change across the Curriculum encourages professors to engage salient aspects of their academic disciplines to the study of climate issues in the classroom as well as sample theories, practices, and resources from a wide range of academic disciplines outside of their own areas of specialization. The contributors ask what role will higher education play in addressing environmental challenges and producing students who become professionals who accomplish work that solves these problems. Climate

Radical Social Transformation in the Climate Crisis Stuart Tannock, 2021-09-21 This book asks how education can be developed to facilitate the radical social, cultural, and economic transformations needed to deal with the ongoing climate emergency. The author illuminates important links between the work currently being done in climate change and education and the broader and older theories of radical education, an area of education theory and practice that has long grappled with the question of how to use education to create a more just society. Highlighting both current work and long traditions that include popular, progressive, feminist, anti-racist, and anti-colonial education, the author draws on interdisciplinary research to make the case for how radical education can help tackle the climate change crisis. It will have direct relevance for scholars of environmental education and radical education as well as activists and practitioners. Sustainable Universities and Colleges Mark Starik, Paul Shrivastava, 2024-06-06 This book provides a set of decision and organizational models for the advancement of sustainability in higher education International authors present how universities and colleges have attempted to advance sustainability both within and outside of their institutions and how institutions of higher education can continue to upgrade those efforts to help lead societies toward greater sustainability in the future Engaging Civic Engagement Chad Woolard,2017-08-15 Civic education in higher education is housed in various types of institutions i e community colleges four year universities public and private institutions institutional offices academic departments and larger cross campus initiatives and organizations Civic education programs promote numerous activities to foster student engagement both inside and outside the classroom Many in higher education have embraced the civic education movement however as with other social movements the civic education movement is still a contested area Defining civic education i e civic engagement service learning political engagement community engagement etc becomes problematic because there seems to be as many terms for civic education as there are civic education scholars Engaging Civic Engagement Framing the Civic Education Movement in Higher Education provides a comparative analysis of major approaches to civic education in the civic education moment including implications for higher education Developing Future-ready Learners for a Global

Diversity in Environmental Education Research , 2009-01-01 Research in environmental education EE is a growing field of inquiry and should be seen as respondent to a variety of program developments around the world These diverse programs are the context for this body of educational research Diversity in EE research is also compounded when one considers the various cultures epistemologies and research traditions that may inform the field This complexity accounts for the range of forms for environmental learning in formal informal or non formal contexts There is a good deal of evidence that in order to be more responsive to the needs of diverse populations program developments around the world are now beginning to reflect the variation in our society However the same cannot always be said in terms of research methodologies within mainstream environmental education research Outside of a few examples there seems to have been very little in the way of development of research genres aimed at understanding characterizing and supporting cultural diversity within much of mainstream environmental education Diversity of method may also be important for the overall quality or health of environmental education research To locate many of the new ideas and approaches in this area one needs to look outside environmental education towards general educational research or to other fields such as environmental justice indigenous education science education and health education to name only a few examples This volume of original research reports from around the globe begins to richly describe aspects of diversity in environmental education research It does so in two ways first it mirrors the diversity of voices and cultures that are conducting research in this ever broadening and increasingly global and international field of inquiry second it illuminates a potential diversity of research methods by highlighting a range of methodologies salient in other fields which have emerging promise for the practice of research in environmental education
