Bulos científicos: de la tierra plana al coronavirus Alexandre López Borrull, 2020-09-10 El actual uso de las redes sociales y la sobreabundancia de información hace que nos lleguen muchos contenidos que son falsos o engañosos. Hablamos de las fake news a nivel general pero también en la ciencia hemos visto a lo largo de la historia rumores y teorías que siguen siendo asumidos por parte de la gente aunque la comunidad científica lo haya desmentido. En este libro se repasan algunos de los principales rumores y bulos científicos que más debate han generado. El creacionismo, las vacunas, la tierra plana y la clonación de seres humanos, el famoso corte de digestión pero también la llegada a la Luna. En poca de infodemia también trataremos algunos de los más recientes como algunos de los relacionados con la COVID 19 como su origen. Por qué llegan a atraernos las teorías de la conspiración. Por qué hay gente que cree que no se ha llegado a la Luna. Te proponemos aprender más sobre divulgación científica y cómo se difunde la información en nuestros días.

Medicinal and Aromatic Plants Lakhan Kumar, Navneeta Bharadvaja, Ram Singh, Raksha Anand, 2024-06-29 Due to complex phytochemical components and associated beneficial properties, numerous medicinal and aromatic plants in whole or parts have been used for nutritional purposes or the treatment of various diseases and disorders in humans and animals. Essential oils from medicinal and aromatic plants (MAPs) have been exploited for product formulations of pharmaceuticals, cosmetics, food and beverage colorants, biopesticides and several other utility chemicals of industrial importance. There is scientific evidence of many medicinal plant extracts possessing immunomodulatory, immunostimulatory, antidiabetic, anticarcinogenic, antimicrobial and antioxidant properties, thus demonstrating their traditional use in popular medicine. With the advent of modern technology, the exploitation of natural resources has exponentially increased in order to fulfill the demand of an increased human population with improved quality of life. The traditional agriculture and production-based supply of commodities is inadequate to meet the current demand. Biotechnological approaches are gaining importance to bridge the gaps in demand and supply. In the proposed book, medicinal and aromatic plant-based secondary metabolites have been discussed in terms of their therapeutic potential and industrial relevance. To discuss the qualitative and quantitative analysis of a range of medicinal and aromatic plants based secondary metabolites (SMs), bioprocess development for their extraction and bioseparation, a brief overview of their industrial relevance, various tissue culturing strategies, biotechnological approaches to enhance production, scale-up strategies, management of residual biomass post extraction of target SMs is central to the idea of the proposed book. A section will explore the verticals mentioned above. In the next section, the book addresses the approaches for conserving and improving medicinal and aromatic plant genetic resources. In the third section, approaches to managing the post-harvest crop residue and secondary metabolites extracted plant biomass will be thoroughly discussed. The recent integration of artificial intelligence to improve medicinal and aromatic plant research at several levels, including the development and employment of computational approaches to enhance secondary metabolite production, tissue culture, drug design and discovery and disease treatment, will be included in the fourth section. The book summarizes current research status gaps in knowledge agro industrial potential waste or residual plant biomass management conservation strategies and computational approaches in the area of medicinal and aromatic plants with an aim to translate biotechnological interventions into reality
