Conceptual Modeling - ER 2002 Stefano Spaccapietra, Salvatore March, Yahiko Kambayashi, 2003-06-30 For more than 20 years the series of Conceptual Modeling ER conferences has provided a forum for research communities and practitioners to present and change research results and practical experiences in the fields of database design and conceptual modeling Throughout the years the scope of these conferences has extended from database design and specific topics of that area to more universal or refined conceptual modeling organizing originally weak or ill structured information or knowledge in more cultured ways by applying various kinds of principles abstract models and theories for different purposes At the same time many technically oriented approaches have been developed which aim to facilitate the implementation of rather advanced conceptual models Conceptual modeling is based on the process of conceptualization and it is the core of system structuring as well as justification for information systems development. It supports and facilitates the understanding, explanation, prediction and reasoning on information and knowledge and their manipulation in the systems in addition to understanding and designing the functions of the systems. The conceptualization process aims at constructing concepts relevant for the knowledge and information system in question. Concepts in the human mind and concept descriptions in computerized information systems are quite different things by nature but both should be taken into account in conceptual modeling. Usually concept descriptions are properly observed but concepts in the human mind and their properties are often neglected quite carelessly.

Concepts and Techniques of Geographic Information Systems Chor Pang Lo, Albert K. W. Yeung, 2007. Fully updated to reflect advances in GIS concepts and techniques, this guide approaches the subject from the broader context of information technology. Gives complete up-to-date coverage to the concepts and techniques pertaining to every stage of the systems development life cycle of GIS as well as its applications to various areas of spatial problem solving and decision making. For GIS specialists, GIS technologists, GIS sales directors, urban planners, natural resource managers, land surveyors, geomatics engineers and foresters who want a complete understanding of GIS and how GIS applies to their fields of interest.
