Daughter Moving Away Poem:

The Daughter's Way Tanis MacDonald, 2012-09-01 The Daughter's Way investigates negotiations of female subjectivity in twentieth century Canadian women's elegies with a special emphasis on the father's death as a literary and political watershed. The book examines the work of Dorothy Livesay, P. K. Page, Jay Macpherson, Margaret Atwood, Kristjana Gunnars, Lola Lemire Tostevin, Anne Carson, and Erin Mour as elegiac daughteronomies, literary artifacts of mourning that grow from the poet's investigation into the function and limitations of elegiac convention. Some poets treat the father as a metaphor for socio-political power, while others explore more personal iterations of loss, but all the poets in The Daughter's Way seek to redefine daughterly duty in a contemporary context by challenging elegiac tradition through questions of genre and gender. Beginning with psychoanalytical theories of filiation, inheritance, and mourning as they are complicated by feminist challenges to theories of kinship and citizenship, The Daughter's Way debates the efficacy of the literary work of mourning in twentieth century Canadian poetry. By investigating the way a daughter's filial piety performs and sometimes reconfigures such work, and situating melancholia as a creative force in women's elegies, the book considers how elegies inquire into the rhetoric of mourning as it is complicated by father-daughter kinship.

New Essays in Ecofeminist Literary Criticism Glynis Carr, 2000 The present volume gathers new essays in ecofeminist literary criticism and theory that extend this critical trajectory for ecocriticism in the context of social eco-feminist theory and practice. BOOK JACKET Middle Grounds: Essays on Midlife Mothering Kathy Mantas, 2018-06-01 Although motherhood writings are rich and emerging, the available literature on midlife motherhood and mothering is incomplete and often presented from a narrow perspective. Middle Grounds: Essays on Midlife Mothering fills this gap, widening the lens on a sociological phenomenon that is expanding in the twenty-first century. It brings together scholarly and creative essays from diverse disciplines and cultural perspectives to reflect a more contemporary viewpoint that motherhood and mothering is not limited by the stages of life or chronological age. It echoes distinct voices speaking about experiences that represent a global reality for midlife mothering practices. In essence, this collection demonstrates that everything can transpire in the middle period of a woman's life. Thus, in midlife we encounter a broad range of mothering experiences and practices and ways of representing and expressing them.

It's time for this rebel with a cause to prove he's got what it takes to become the family man he's always wanted to be.

Engendering Ireland Rebecca Barr, Sarah-Anne Buckley, Laura Kelly, 2015-09-18 Engendering Ireland is a collection of ten essays showcasing the importance of gender in a variety of disciplines. These essays interrogate gender as a concept which encompasses both masculinity and femininity and which permeates history and literature, culture and society in the modern period. The collection includes historical research which situates Irish women workers within an international economic context, textual analysis which sheds light on the effects of modernity on the home and rising female expectations in the post-war era, the rediscovery of significant Irish women modernists such as Mary Devenport O'Neill and changing representations of masculinity, race, ethnicity and interculturalism in modern Irish theatre. Each of these ten essays provides a thought-provoking picture of the complex and hitherto unrecognised roles gender has played in Ireland over the last century. While each of these chapters offers a fresh perspective on familiar themes in Irish gender studies, they also illustrate the importance and relevance of gender studies to contemporary debates in Irish society.

Roots and Wings Roger A. Desmarais, 1996 Written by a father whose daughters have grown up and moved away from home, this heartfelt collection will touch the souls of parents who watched their children reach out and embrace the world as well as children who are about to leave home or who are already out on their own.

Gary Soto Ron McFarland, 2022-08-22 In a 1995 interview, prolific Chicano writer Gary Soto noted, "Wonderment has always been a part of my life." This book surveys Soto's immense range of poems, stories, novels, essays, and plays for audiences of prereaders to adults. Soto's world moves from the cotton and beet fields of the San Joaquin Valley to the blue-collar barrios of Fresno and to urban and suburban settings in Oakland and Berkeley. Chapters analyze a wide variety of Soto titles from his breakout works like 1977's The Elements of San Joaquin to the Chato the Cat illustrated books for children. With self-deprecating humor, particularly in his poems, Soto combines his wonderment with the trials and conflicts that beset him throughout life. In such novels as Jesse Buried Onions and The Afterlife and in his stories for YA readers including Baseball in April and Petty Crimes, his broad array of characters confront the anxieties and annoyances of adolescence. Although he continues to motivate young Chicanos to read and write, Soto stakes his greatest claims to literary prominence through his poems, which are accessible to readers of all ages.

The Complete Poems of Louis Daniel Brodsky: Volume, Two, 1967-1976 Louis Daniel Brodsky, 1996 The second volume in Louis Daniel Brodsky's Complete Poems series covering his early years as a professional poet from 1967-1976 contains more than eight hundred chronologically arranged pieces. This body of work shows Brodsky developing a number of artistic strategies to record the life he chose outside the realm of academia, which he abandoned after completing his master's degree in creative writing at San Francisco State University in 1968.

Time Being Books

Decolonial Puerto Rican Women's Writings Roberta Hurtado, 2019-06-05 This book explores representations of sentient flesh, flesh that holds consciousness of being in Puerto Rican women's literature. It considers how different literary devices can participate in the decolonization of the flesh as it is obfuscated by mappings of the body from the Enlightenment era and colonial endeavors. Drawing on studies of cognitive development and epigenetics to identify how sentient flesh creates knowledge of power and navigates methods of subversion for social justice this book grapples with the question of how Puerto Rican women living in the nation of their colonizer manifest an identity that exists beyond the scope of colonization It makes the case for a change in perspective that illustrates the conceptual shift from survivors to thrivers to educators To do so it draws upon Cherr e Moraga and Gloria Anzald a s theory in the flesh Iris Lopez s theories of trauma knowledge and Mar a Lugones s concept of world travelers to retain the corporeal flesh and physical location in Latinas attempts to write subversion under U S colonization across racial cultural and ethnic boundaries as well as the gendered sexuality barriers identified by Emma P rez This project builds on their work to frame Latina literature within a new discussion of how corporeal memory and sentient experiences of identity must center sentient flesh as the source of decolonial consciousness rather than relapsing into discourses of the body
