Danielle Simmons Banister,2015 Assessing Teacher Effectiveness Jim Campbell,Leonidas Kyriakides,Daniel Muijs,Wendy Robinson,2012-10-12 How can we really evaluate teacher effectiveness Systems of teacher appraisal and evaluation are being created across the world in order to monitor and assess teacher performance But do the models used really give a fair evaluation Based on international research the authors argue that teacher effectiveness is too narrowly conceptualised and methods of measuring it are not attuned to the real contexts in which teachers work They propose a model of differential teacher effectiveness which takes into account that teachers may be more effective with some categories of students than with others teachers may be more effective with some teaching contexts than others teachers may be more effective with some subjects or components than with others Building on and developing previous research on models of teacher effectiveness and current theories the authors open up possible new debates which will be of interest to academics and researchers working in this area throughout the world

Teacher Effectiveness Research Geraldine Gilliss,Marita Moll,Canadian Teachers' Federation,1984 This 723 item bibliography lists materials on teacher effectiveness research published from 1978 to early 1984 Reference to some earlier works of significance is also included Teacher effectiveness research is here defined to include principally studies conducted in the presage context process product tradition in an attempt to determine relationships between teacher behaviors and students cognitive and affective attainments The bibliography deals with specific aspects of the topic 1 classroom climate warmth enthusiasm 2 classroom management 3 direct instruction 4 expectations 5 instructional time 6 mastery learning 7 nonverbal behavior 8 questions

Grade Inflation Valen E. Johnson, 2006-05-09 Grade inflation runs rampant at most colleges and universities but faculty and administrators are seemingly unwilling to face the problem This book explains why exposing many of the misconceptions surrounding college grading Based on historical research and the results of a yearlong on line course evaluation experiment conducted at Duke University during the 1998 1999 academic year the effects of student grading on various educational processes and their subsequent impact on student and faculty behavior is examined Principal conclusions of this investigation are that instructors grading practices have a significant influence on end of course teaching evaluations and that student expectations of grading practices play an important role in the courses that students decide to take The latter effect has a serious impact on course enrollments in the natural sciences and mathematics while the combination of both mean that faculty have an incentive to award high grades and students have an incentive to choose courses with faculty who do Grade inflation is the natural consequence of this incentive system Material contained in this book is essential reading for anyone involved in efforts to reform our postsecondary educational system or for those who simply wish to survive and prosper in it Valen Johnson is a Professor of Biostatistics at the University of Michigan Prior to accepting an appointment in Ann Arbor he was a Professor of Statistics and Decision Sciences at Duke University where data for this book was collected He is a Fellow of the American Statistical Association
