Celebrity Advocacy And International Development Rethinking Development:

Celebrity Advocacy and International Development Dan Brockington, 2014-04-03 Celebrity advocacy is a curious phenomenon. It occupies a significant proportion of the public domain but does so without engaging particularly well with much of the public. Yet this may not matter very much. Many people at the core of advocacy and in political and business elites simply do not notice any lack of engagement. In these circles celebrity advocacy can be remarkably effective. Celebrity Advocacy and International Development examines the work of celebrity advocacy and lobbying in international development. Its purpose is to understand the alliances, resulting history, consequences, wider contexts and implications. It argues that celebrity advocacy signals a new aspect of elite rule. For populist celebrity advocacy can mark ironically a disengagement between the public and politics and particularly the public and civil society. Recognising this poses new challenges but also presents new opportunities for the development movement. This book gives students and researchers in development studies and media studies a wealth of original empirical data including interviews across the NGO sector, media and celebrity industries, newspaper analysis, large surveys of public opinion and focus group research. Art, Culture and International Development John Clammer, 2014-11-13 Culture is not simply an explanation of last resort but is itself a rich, multifaceted and contested concept and set of practices that needs to be expanded, appreciated and applied in fresh ways if it is to be both valued in itself and to be of use in practical development. This innovative book places culture specifically in the form of the arts back at the centre of debates in development studies by introducing new ways of conceptualizing art in relation to development. The book shows how the arts and development are related in very practical ways as means to achieve development goals through visual, dramatic, filmic and craft inspired ways. It advocates not so much culture and development but rather for the development of culture. Without a cultural content to economic and social transformation, the problems found in much development, uprooting of cultures, loss of art forms, languages and modes of expression and performance may only accelerate. Paying attention to the development of the arts as the content of development helps to amend this culturally destructive process. Finally, the book argues for the value of the arts in attaining sustainable cultures, promoting poverty alleviation, encouraging self-empowerment, stimulating creativity and the social imagination which in turn flow back into wider processes of social transformation. Discussion questions at the end of each chapter make this book ideal to help foster further thinking and debate. This book is an inspiring read for postgraduate students and researchers in the fields of development studies, cultural studies and sociology of development. New Media and International Development Anke Schwittay, 2014-09-19 New Media and International Development is the first in-depth examination of microfinance's enduring popularity with Northern publics. Through a case study of Kiva.org, the world's first person-to-person microlending website and other microfinance organizations, the book argues that international development efforts have an affective dimension. This is fostered through narrative and visual representations through the performance of development rituals and through bonds of fellowship between Northern donors and Southern recipients These practices constitute people in the global North as everyday humanitarians and mobilize their affective investments which are financial social and emotional investments in distant others to alleviate their poverty This book draws on ethnographic material from the US India and Indonesia and the anthropological and development studies literature on humanitarianism affect and the public faces of development It opens up novel avenues of research into the formation of new development subjects in the global North This book will appeal to researchers and students of international development anthropology media studies and related fields as well as practitioners and professionals in the field of international development

Routledge Handbook of South-South Relations Elena

Fiddian-Qasmiyeh, Patricia Daley, 2018-12-07 South South cooperation is becoming ever more important to states policy makers and academics Many Northern states international agencies and NGOs are promoting South South partnerships as a means of sharing the burden in funding and undertaking development assistance and protection activities often in response to increased political and financial pressures on their own aid budgets However the mainstreaming of Southern led initiatives by UN agencies and Northern states is paradoxical in many ways especially because the development of a South South cooperation paradigm was originally conceptualised as a necessary way to overcome the exploitative nature of North South relations in the era of decolonisation This handbook critically explores diverse ways of defining the South and of conceptualising and engaging with South South relations Through 30 state of the art reviews of key academic and policy debates the handbook evaluates past present and future opportunities and challenges of South South cooperation and lays out research agendas for the next 5 10 years The book covers key models of cooperation including internationalism Pan Arabism and Pan Africanism diverse modes of South South connection exchange and support including South South aid transnational activism and migration and responses to displacement violence and conflict including Southern led humanitarianism peace building and conflict resolution In so doing the handbook reflects on decolonial postcolonial and anticolonial theories and methodologies exploring urgent questions regarding the nature and implications of conducting research in and about the global South and of applying a Southern lens to a wide range of encounters processes and dynamics across the global South and global North alike This handbook will be of great interest to scholars and post graduate students in anthropology area studies cultural studies development studies history geography international relations politics postcolonial studies and sociology

Lights, Camera, Feminism? Samantha Majic, 2023-05-16

Celebrities in the United States have drawn significant attention and resources to the complex issue of human trafficking a subject of feminist concern and they are often criticized for promoting sensationalized and simplistic understandings of the issue In this comprehensive analysis of celebrities anti trafficking activism however Samantha Majic finds that this phenomenon is more nuanced even as some celebrities promote regressive issue narratives and carceral solutions others use their platforms to elevate more diverse representations of human trafficking and feminist analyses of gender inequality

Lights Camera Feminism thus argues that we should understand celebrities as multilevel political actors whose activism is shaped and mediated by a range of personal and contextual factors with implications for feminist and democratic politics more broadly

Communicating Development with Communities Linje Manyozo, 2017-07-14 Development theory and practice are often taught in a manner that strips them of their historical context and obscures alternative intellectual assumptions and critical frameworks This prevents students from acquiring a holistic understanding of the world and consequently when it comes to development practice most lack the skills to live and engage with people It has become crucial to properly consider what it means to conceive and implement participatory development out in the field and not just in the boardroom Building on the work of Robert Chambers and Arturo Escobar Communicating Development with Communities is an empirically grounded critical reflection on how the development industry defines imagines and constructs development at the implementation level Unpacking the dominant syntax in the theory and practice of development the book advocates a move towards relational and indigenous models of living that celebrate local ontologies spirituality economies of solidarity and community ness It investigates how subaltern voices are produced and appropriated and how well meaning experts can easily become oppressors The book propounds a pedagogy of listening as a pathway that offers a space for interest groups to collaboratively curate meaningful development with and alongside communities This is a valuable resource for academics and practitioners in the fields of Development Studies Communication for Development Communication for Social Change Social Anthropology Economic Development and Public Policy Foreword by Robin Mansell about within a given development paradigm as opposed to its role in challenging dominant conceptions and practices of development and creating alternatives Through a collection of insightful and provocative chapters this book will examine the role of learning in shaping new discourses and practices of development By drawing on contributions from activists researchers education and development practitioners from around the world this book situates learning within the wider political and cultural economies of development It critically explores if and how learning can shape processes of societal transformation and consequently a new language and practice of development This includes offering critical accounts of popular informal and non formal learning processes as well as the contribution of indigenous knowledges in providing spaces for the co production of knowledge thinking and action on development and in terms of shaping the ways in which citizens engage with and create new understandings of development itself This book makes an important and original contribution by reframing educational practices and processes in relation to broader global struggles for justice voice and development in a rapidly changing development landscape
