Contesting Aging Loss Contesting Aging Loss:

Contesting Aging & Loss Janice Elizabeth Graham, Peter H. Stephenson, 2010-01-01 This volume invites readers to re-imagine the losses of aging by listening to the views of elders themselves Researchers students of aging and policy makers should find this work most enlightening Athena McLean Central Michigan University Aging in a Changing World Molly George, 2021-10-15 This is a story about aging in place in a world of global movement Around the world many older people have stayed still but have been profoundly impacted by the movement of others Without migrating themselves many older people now live in a far different country than the one of their memories Recently the Brexit vote and the 2016 election of Trump have re-enforced prevalent stereotypes of the racist older person This book challenges simplified images of the old as racist nostalgic and resistant to change by taking a deeper more nuanced look at older people's complex relationship with the diversity and multiculturalism that has grown and developed around them Aging in a Changing World takes a look at how some older people in New Zealand have been responding to and interacting with the new multiculturalism they now encounter in their daily lives Through their unhurried micro daily interactions with immigrants they quietly emerge as agents of the very social change they are assumed to oppose Learning to Be Old Margaret Cruikshank, 2013-02-14 This work examines what it means to grow old in America today The book questions social myths and fears about aging sickness and the other social roles of the elderly the over medicalization of many older people and ageism Here the author proposes alternatives to the ways aging is usually understood in both popular culture and mainstream gerontology She does not propose the ideas of successful aging or productive aging but more the idea of learning how to age Featuring new research and analysis the third edition of this text demonstrates more thoroughly than the previous editions that aging is socially constructed The book focuses on the differences in aging for women and men as well as for people in different socioeconomic groups The author is able to put aging in a broad context that not only focuses on how aging affects women but men as well Key updates in the third edition include changes in the health care system changes in how long older Americans are working especially given the impact of the recession and new material on the brain and mind body interconnections The author challenges conventional ideas about aging and brings forth some new ideas surrounding aging in America today The Becoming of Age Pamela H. Gravagne, 2013-05-08 The Becoming of Age is an examination of the ways that aging and old age are represented in popular film Arguing that the ideas behind cinematic depictions of aging are historical and open to revision the author looks at how movies both promote negative portrayals of aging and challenge its persistent cultural devaluation Movies are a site of struggle where the representation and the reality of aging intertwine and they have the power not only to reflect but to reconstruct our understanding Cross-Cultural and Cross-Disciplinary Perspectives in Social Gerontology Tannistha Samanta, 2016-08-02 This volume intends to re-establish social gerontology as a discipline that has pragmatic links to policy and practice Collectively the chapters enrich public debates about the moral cultural and economic questions surrounding aging thereby ameliorating the problems associated with aging societies This volume is uniquely cross cultural theory driven and cross disciplinary It fills a gap in the gerontological scholarship of the global south that is predominantly descriptive and empirical Based on original research this volume examines in particular the sociological question of inequality and its intersection with age gender health family and social relations In the process the studies herein highlight the unique historical institutional and social systems that govern the subjective experience of aging in diverse contexts globally Specifically societies in transition including India Lebanon Nigeria Japan China Israel and in Europe are studied while connecting the micro social experience of aging loneliness wellbeing discrimination relationships and resilience with larger temporal and political contexts This exercise generates intellectual capital that reformulates links between aging research and policy in innovative ways Overall the volume echoes the global scientific commitment to understand the socio cultural process of aging in transitional societies and utilizes rich opportunities for cross fertilization of ideas disciplines and methods to advance the gerontological promise of critical inquiry training and practice

The New Neighborhood Senior Center Joyce Weil, 2014-11-03 In 2011 seven thousand American baby boomers those born between 1946 and 1964 turned sixty five daily As this largest U S generation ages cities municipalities and governments at every level must grapple with the allocation of resources and funding for maintaining the quality of life health and standard of living for an aging population In The New Neighborhood Senior Center Joyce Weil uses in depth ethnographic methods to examine a working class senior center in Queens New York She explores the ways in which social structure directly affects the lives of older Americans and traces the role of political social and economic institutions and neighborhood processes in the decision to close such centers throughout the city of New York Many policy makers and gerontologists advocate a concept of aging in place whereby the communities in which these older residents live provide access to resources that foster and maintain their independence But all aging in place is not equal and the success of such efforts depends heavily upon the social class and availability of resources in any given community Senior centers expanded in part by funding from federal programs in the 1970s were designed as focal points in the provision of community based services However for the first wave of boomers the role of these centers has come to be questioned Declining government support has led to the closings of many centers even as the remaining centers are beginning to rebrand to attract the boomer generation However The New Neighborhood Senior Center demonstrates the need to balance what the boomers want from centers with the needs of frailer or more vulnerable elders who rely on the services of senior centers on a daily basis Weil challenges readers to consider what changes in social policies are needed to support or supplement senior centers and the functions they serve

Research Design in Aging and Social Gerontology Joyce Weil, 2025-06-27 This comprehensive book provides a review across methodological approaches and data collection methods commonly used with older adults in real life settings It addresses the role of normative age related sensory cognitive and functional changes as well as the influence of generational cohort age period cohort Fully updated this second edition reflects recent changes in gerontology and includes more information about equity diversity and inclusion the impact of the COVID 19 pandemic the use of virtual research methods discussion about the researcher s reflexivity the role of theory in research qualitative research developments an expansion of secondary analysis of data and the use of artificial intelligence in research Features include Descriptions evaluations and applications of a wide range of methodological approaches and methods used to collect data about older persons quantitative qualitative mixed and emergent methods photovoice virtual environments etc Ways to match research questions to selection of method without a preconceived methodological preference or dominance Real world and applied examples along with cases from the gerontological literature How to sections about reading output software reports and qualitative analysis screenshots from NVivo and quantitative SPSS output and interpretation Pedagogical tools in every chapter such as text boxes case studies definitions of key terms discussion questions and references for further reading on chapter topics Glossary of key terms complete sample research report and an overview of past methodological research design work in gerontology This text is intended for upper level undergraduates and masters students in aging and gerontology as well as students in human development applied anthropology psychology public health sociology and social work settings Healthcare professionals social workers and care managers who work with older adults will also find this text a valuable resource At www.routledge.com/cw/weil instructors will find PowerPoint presentations additional discussion questions suggestions for in class activities and assessments and a sample syllabus and students will find flashcards based on glossary terms a downloadable copy of the sample research report in the text links to data sets related websites online videos and podcasts further reading select gerontological journals and multiple choice and true or false questions

Creative Ageing and the Arts of Care Elizabeth Brooke, 2022-08-24 Making a case for cultural participation by older adults to enhance the quality of their lives and building on concepts of adult human development and empowerment Elizabeth Brooke reframes active ageing to include forms of creative expression and cultural participation crucial to transforming later stages of the life course

Calling Family Tanja Ahlin, 2023-08-11 How do digital technologies shape both how people care for each other and through that who they are With technological innovation is on the rise and increasing migration introducing vast distances between family members a situation additionally complicated by the COVID 19 pandemic and the requirements of physical distancing especially for the most vulnerable older adults this is a pertinent question Through ethnographic fieldwork among families of migrating nurses from Kerala India Tanja Ahlin explores how digital technologies shape elder care when adult children and their aging parents live far apart Coming from a country in which appropriate elder care is closely associated with co residence these families tinker with smartphones and social media to establish how care at a distance can and should be done to be considered good Through the notion of transnational care collectives Calling Family uncovers the subtle workings of digital technologies on care across countries and continents when being physically together is not feasible Calling Family provides a better understanding of technological relationality that can only be expected to further intensify in the future This book is also freely available online as an open access digital edition The open access publication was financially supported by the Social Science Research Master and partly also by the Health Care and the Body Programme Group of the Department of Anthropology both at the Amsterdam Institute of Social Science Research University of Amsterdam

Gender, Health and Healthcare Jacqueline H. Watts, 2016-03-09 Health status and the experience of working in health care roles are both strongly shaped by gender and although there have been attempts to incorporate gender awareness in both health and employment policies the significance of gender in these areas continues to be marginalised within public debates and academic discourses Taking a social constructionist perspective Watts considers the ways in which gender impacts upon health in all its elements including access technology professionalisation health promotion and health as an important sector of the labour market She discusses gender as a developing and diversified category exploring ideas about masculinity and the fluidity of gender boundaries in determining individual identity Chapters that follow discuss men's and women's health ideology of gender and health specifically exploring different social norms and ideas about male and female health and the dominant ideological association between femaleness and caring working for health with particular focus on the gendered interplay of caring and curing roles technology and changes to gender health and healthcare health promotion as a gendered activity and finally the importance of introducing an intersectional approach beyond gender to articulate a deeper understanding of health in a postmodern context The concluding chapter draws together these themes to underscore the importance of placing gender at the centre of health and health care delivery to fully take account of both the different life and health experiences of men and women and the gendered dimensions of working in health care
