Cannibal Encounters Johns Hopkins Studies In Atlantic History And Culture:

Cannibal Encounters Philip P. Boucher, 2009-05-25 A history and analysis of European colonizers relationship with and literary depiction of the aborigines of the Lesser Antilles Philip Boucher analyzes the images and the realities of European relations with the people known as Island Caribs during the first three centuries after Columbus Based on literary sources travelers observations and missionary accounts as well as on French and English colonial archives and administrative correspondence Cannibal Encounters offers a vivid portrait of a troubled chapter in the history of European Amerindian relations Winner of the French Colonial Historical Society s Alf Andrew Heggoy Book Prize A strong contribution to our understanding of the interplay not only between France and Britain in the struggle for the Antilles but also between the colonizers and the indigenous people fighting to maintain their independence from both European powers American Historical Review Welcome evidence that historians are willing to rewrite the history of the colonial era in the Caribbean with a clearer eye to the part the indigenous population played Peter Hulme William and Mary Quarterly Boucher s research is thorough and his contribution to the historiography of the Caribbean and of colonialism is valuable Ethan Casey Magill Book Reviews An intelligent well informed discussion of French and English contacts with Island Caribs in the West Indies from the pre colonial era until the end of the Seven Years War Kenneth Morgan English Historical Review A new and important contribution to the efforts of historians and anthropologists to understand the history of the Caribs Jalil Sued Badillo Journal of American History A lucid and terse examination of direct interactions between Island Caribs and Europeans in the Lesser Antilles and the indirect influence of literary images of Island Caribs and other Native Americans on the emergence of Western philosophical traditions William F Keegan Journal of Interdisciplinary History No one has mined the French National Archives to this extent on this topic Boucher renders valuable information accessible to English readers Robert A Myers Alfred University Cannibal Encounters Philip P. Boucher, 2008 Globalism in the Middle Ages and the Early Modern Age Albrecht Classen, 2023-09-05 Although it is fashionable among modernists to claim that globalism emerged only since ca 1800 the opposite can well be documented through careful comparative and transdisciplinary studies as this volume demonstrates offering a wide range of innovative perspectives on often neglected literary philosophical historical or medical documents Texts images ideas knowledge and objects migrated throughout the world already in the pre modern world even if the quantitative level compared to the modern world might have been different In fact by means of translations and trade for instance global connections were established and maintained over the centuries Archetypal motifs developed in many literatures indicate how much pre modern people actually shared But we also discover hard core facts of global economic exchange import of exotic medicine and on another level intensive intellectual debates on religious issues Literary evidence serves best to expose the extent to which contacts with people in foreign countries were imaginable often desirable and at times feared of course The pre modern world was much more on the move and reached out to distant lands out of curiosity economic interests and political and military concerns Diplomats crisscrossed the continents and artists poets and craftsmen traveled widely We can identify for instance both the Vikings and the Arabs as global players long before the rise of modern globalism so this volume promises to rewrite many of our traditional notions about pre modern worldviews economic conditions and the literary sharing on a global level as perhaps best expressed by the genre of the fable World Military History Bibliography Barton Hacker,2003-06-01 Preclassical and indigenous nonwestern military institutions and methods of warfare are the chief subjects of this annotated bibliography of work published 1967 1997 Classical antiquity post Roman Europe and the westernized armed forces of the 20th century although covered receive less systematic attention Emphasis is on historical studies of military organization and the relationships between military and other social institutions rather than wars and battles Especially rich in references to the periodical literature the bibliography is divided into eight parts 1 general and comparative topics 2 the ancient world 3 Eurasia since antiquity 4 sub Saharan Africa and Oceania 5 pre Columbian America 6 postcontact America 7 the contemporary nonwestern world and 8 philosophical social scientific natural scientific and other works not primarily historical Travel, Time, and Space in the Middle Ages and Early Modern Time Albrecht Classen,2018-10-22 Research on medieval and early modern travel literature has made great progress which now allows us to take the next step and to analyze the correlations between the individual and space throughout time which contributed essentially to identity formation in many different settings The contributors to this volume engage with a variety of pre modern texts images and other documents related to travel and the individual s self orientation in foreign lands and make an effort to determine the concept of identity within a spatial framework often determined by the meeting of various cultures Moreover objects images and words can also travel and connect people from different worlds through books The volume thus brings together new scholarship focused on the interrelationship of travel space time and individuality which also includes of course women s movement through the larger world whether in concrete terms or through proxy travel via readings Travel here is also examined with respect to craftsmen s activities at various sites artists employment for many different projects all over Europe and elsewhere and in terms of metaphysical experiences catabasis The Secret in Medieval Literature Albrecht Classen,2022-10-17 The Secret in Medieval Literature Alternative Worlds in the Middle Ages explores the many strange phenomena both in the Middle Ages and today that do not find any good rational explanations Those do not pertain to magic or to religion in the traditional sense of the word they are secrets of an epistemological kind and tend to defy human rationality without being marginal or irrelevant At first sight we might believe that we face elements from fairy tales but the medieval cases discussed here go far beyond such a simplistic approach to the mysterious dimension of secrets In fact as this book argues medieval poets commonly engaged with alternative forces and described their workings within the human context both in the Latin West and in the East without being able to come to terms with them critically Those mysteries appear both in heroic epics and courtly romances among other genres and they figure more frequently than we might have assumed On the one hand we could conceive of those secrets as the product of literary liberties and imagination on the other those secrets prove to be rather serious agents intervening in the lives of the fictional protagonists By the same token our modern world is not all rationality and material conditions either The study of secrets in the Middle Ages thus opens the pathway toward a new epistemology both for the people in the pre modern age and us today

Blood is Thicker Than Water Alistair J. Bright, 2011 This study represents a contribution to the pre Colonial archaeology of the Windward Islands in the Caribbean The research aimed to determine how the Ceramic Age c 400 BC AD 1492 Amerindian inhabitants of the region related to one another and others at various geographic scales with a view to better understanding social interaction and organisation within the Windward Islands as well the integration of this region within the macro region This research approached the study of intra and inter island interaction and social development through an island by island study of some 640 archaeological sites and their ceramic assemblages Besides providing insight into settlement sequences patterns and micro mobility through time it also highlighted various configurations of sites spread across different islands that were united by shared ceramic decorative traits These configurations were more closely examined by taking recourse to graph theory By extending the comparative scope of this research to the Greater Antilles and the South American mainland possible material cultural influences from more distant regions could be suggested While Windward Island communities certainly developed a localised material cultural identity they remained open to a host of wide ranging influences outside the Windward Island micro region As such rather than representing a cultural backwater operating in the periphery of a burgeoning Ta no empire it is argued that Windward Island communities actively and flexibly realigned themselves with several mainland South American societies in Late Ceramic Age times c AD 700 1500 forging and maintaining significant ties and exchange relationships Alistair Bright was a member of the Caribbean Research Group at Leiden University from 2003 to 2010 and participated in numerous archaeological surveys and excavations in the Caribbean during that time His research interests include the archaeology ethnohistory and ethnography of the Caribbean and South America as well as the archaeology of island societies throughout the world in general
