Cold War Orientalism Asia In The Middlebrow Imagination 1945 1961:

Cold War Orientalism Christina Klein, 2003-03-10 This study reads the postwar period as one of international economic and political integration a distinct chapter in the process of US led globalization It shows how US policy makers and intellectuals created a global culture of integration that represented the growth of US power in Asia The Cold War in Asia Yangwen Zheng, Hong Liu, Michael Szonyi, 2010 The Cold War stayed cold in Europe but it was hot in Asia Its legacy lives on in the region In none of the three dominant historiographical paradigms orthodox revisionist and post revisionist does Asia or the rest of the Third World figure with much significance What happens to these narratives if we put them to the test in Asia This volume argues that attention to what has been conventionally considered the periphery is essential to a full understanding of the global Cold War Foregrounding Asia necessarily leads to a re assessment of the dominant narratives This volume also argues for a shift in focus from diplomacy and high politics alone towards research into the culture of the Cold War era and its public diplomacy As a whole the essays contribute to enriching our understanding of what was really happening in an era that is too often understood in the catch all framework of the Cold War Akira Iriye Harvard University

The Oxford Handbook of the Cold War Richard H. Immerman, Petra Goedde, 2013-01-31 The Oxford Handbook of the Cold War offers a broad reassessment of the period war based on new conceptual frameworks developed in the field of international history Nearing the 25th anniversary of its end the cold war now emerges as a distinct period in twentieth century history yet one which should be evaluated within the broader context of global political economic social and cultural developments The editors have brought together leading scholars in cold war history to offer a new assessment of the state of the field and identify fundamental questions for future research The individual chapters in this volume evaluate both the extent and the limits of the cold war s reach in world history They call into question orthodox ways of ordering the chronology of the cold war and also present new insights into the global dimension of the conflict Even though each essay offers a unique perspective together they show the interconnectedness between cold war and national and transnational developments including long standing conflicts that preceded the cold war and persisted after its end or global transformations in areas such as human rights or economic and cultural globalization Because of its broad mandate the volume is structured not along conventional chronological lines but thematically offering essays on conceptual frameworks regional perspectives cold war instruments and cold war challenges The result is a rich and diverse accounting of the ways in which the cold war should be positioned within the broader context of world history America's Miracle Man in Vietnam Seth Jacobs, 2005-01-27 Argues that American cultural conceptions of religion and race during the 1950s played a crucial role in framing an ideology through which U S policymakers understood their options in Vietnam Cinema and the Cultural Cold War Sangjoon Lee, 2020-12-15 Cinema and the Cultural Cold War explores the ways in which postwar Asian cinema was shaped by transnational collaborations and competitions between newly independent and colonial states at the height of Cold War politics Sangjoon Lee adopts a simultaneously global and regional approach when analyzing the region's film cultures and industries. New economic conditions in the Asian region and shared postwar experiences among the early cinema entrepreneurs were influenced by Cold War politics. US cultural diplomacy and intensified cultural flows during the 1950s and 1960s. By taking a closer look at the cultural realities of this tumultuous period, Lee comprehensively reconstructs Asian film history in light of the international relationships forged, broken, and re-established as the influence of the non-aligned movement grew across the Cold War. Lee elucidates how motion picture executives, creative personnel, policy makers, and intellectuals in East and Southeast Asia aspired to industrialize their Hollywood-inspired system in order to expand the market and raise the competitiveness of their cultural products. They did this by forming the Federation of Motion Picture Producers in Asia, co-hosting the Asian Film Festival, and co-producing films. Cinema and the Cultural Cold War demonstrates that the emergence of the first intensive postwar film producers network in Asia was in large part the offspring of Cold War cultural politics and the product of American hegemony. Film festivals that took place in cities as diverse as Tokyo, Singapore, Hong Kong, and Kuala Lumpur were annual showcases of cinematic talent as well as opportunities for the Central Intelligence Agency to establish and maintain cultural, political, and institutional linkages between the United States and Asia during the Cold War. Cinema and the Cultural Cold War reanimates this almost forgotten history of cinema and the film industry in Asia.

The Cold War and Asian Cinemas Poshek Fu, Man-Fung Yip, 2019-11-28. This book offers an interdisciplinary, historically grounded study of Asian cinema's complex responses to the Cold War conflict. It situates the global ideological rivalry within regional and local political, social, and cultural processes while offering a transnational and cross-regional focus. This volume makes a major contribution to constructing a cultural and popular cinema history of the global Cold War. Its geographical focus is set on East Asia, Southeast Asia, and South Asia. In adopting such an inclusive approach, it draws attention to the different manifestations and meanings of the connections between the Cold War and cinema across Asian borders. Many essays in the volume have a transnational and cross-regional focus, one that sheds light on Cold War-influenced networks such as the circulation of socialist films across communist countries and on the efforts of American agencies such as the United States Information Service and the Asia Foundation to establish a transregional infrastructure of free cinema to contain communist influences in Asia. With its interdisciplinary orientation and broad geographical focus, the book will appeal to scholars and students from a wide variety of fields, including film studies, history, especially the burgeoning field of cultural Cold War studies, Asian studies, and US-Asian cultural relations. Yearbook of Transnational History Thomas Adam, 2019-07-19. The Yearbook of Transnational History is dedicated to disseminating pioneering research in the field of transnational history. This second volume provides readers with articles on topics such as transnational marriages, exile, soccer, and missionaries, as well as on the campaigns in Communist countries for freeing the American civil rights activist Angela Davis. These articles highlight the movement of ideas, people, policies, and practices across various cultures and societies and explore the relations connections and spaces created by these movements The articles in this volume explore interconnected historical phenomena in Asia North and South America and Europe from the late seventeenth century to the late twentieth century These articles make clear that historical phenomena such as soccer and exile cannot be contained and explained within just one national setting This volume also offers a theoretical article that provides insights into the concept of intercultural transfer studies and its relationship to comparative and global history and an article that surveys the state of research in the field of transnational crime
