Plastic Capitalism Sean H. Vanatta, 2024-05-21 How bankers created the modern consumer credit economy and destroyed financial stability in the process American households are awash in expensive credit card debt But where did all this debt come from In this history of the rise of postwar American finance Sean

H Vanatta shows how bankers created our credit card economy and with it the indebted nation we know today America's consumer debt machine was not inevitable In the years after World War II state and federal regulations ensured that many Americans enjoyed safe banks and inexpensive credit Bankers though grew restless amid restrictive rules that made profits scarce They experimented with new services and new technologies They settled on credit cards and in the 1960s mailed out reams of high interest plastic to build a debt industry from scratch In the 1960s and 70s consumers fought back using federal and state policy to make credit cards safer and more affordable But bankers found ways to work around local rules Beginning in 1980 Citibank and its peers relocated their card plans to South Dakota and Delaware states with the weakest consumer regulations creating on shore financial havens and drawing consumers into an exploitative credit economy over which they had little control We live in the world these bankers made Federal Reserve Bulletin, 1998 New York Magazine, 1983-03-07 New York magazine was born in 1968 after a run as an insert of the New York Herald Tribune and quickly made a place for itself as the trusted resource for readers across the country With award winning writing and photography covering everything from politics and food to theater and fashion the magazine's consistent mission has been to reflect back to its audience the energy and excitement of the city itself while celebrating New York as both a place and an idea H.R. 2440, Credit and Charge Card Disclosure Amendments of 1991 United States.
