Common Sense Classic Thoughts Thinkers:

Women's Liberation and the Sublime Bonnie Mann, 2006 Women's Liberation and the Sublime is a passionate report on the state of feminist thinking and practice after the linguistic turn. A critical assessment of masculinist notions of the sublime in modern and postmodern accounts grounds the author's positive and constructive recuperation of sublime experience in a feminist voice.

Women's Liberation and the Sublime Marilyn Friedman, 2006-10-19 The notion of citizenship is complex; it can be at once an identity, a set of rights, privileges and responsibilities, an elevated and exclusionary status, a relationship between individual and state, and more. In recent decades, citizenship has attracted interdisciplinary attention, particularly with the transnational growth of Western capitalism. Yet citizenship's relationship to gender has gone relatively unexplored, despite the globally pervasive denial of citizenship to women historically and in many places ongoing today. This highly interdisciplinary volume explores the political and cultural dimensions of citizenship and their relevance to women and gender. Containing essays by a well-known group of scholars including Iris Marion Young, Alison Jaggar, Martha Nussbaum, and Sandra Bartky, this book examines the conceptual issues and strategies at play in the feminist quest to give women full citizenship status. The contributors take a fresh look at the issues, going beyond conventional critiques and examining problems in the political and social arrangements, practices, and conditions that diminish women's citizenship in various parts of the world.

Mortality in Traditional Chinese Thought Amy Olberding, Philip J. Ivanhoe, 2012-01-02 Mortality in Traditional China is the definitive exploration of a complex and fascinating but little-understood subject. Arguably, death as a concept has not been nearly as central a preoccupation in Chinese culture as it has been in the West. However, even in a society that seems to understand death as a part of life, responses to mortality are revealing and indicate much about what is valued and what is feared This edited volume fills the lacuna on this subject presenting an array of philosophical artistic historical and religious perspectives on death during a variety of historical periods Contributors look at material culture including findings now available from the Mawangdui tomb excavations consider death in Confucian Daoist and Buddhist traditions and discuss death and the history and philosophy of war
