EBOOK: Imagining the State Mark Neocleous,2003-09-16 This is an excellent study a valuable asset for anyone teaching or studying political theory or political sociology Network Mark Neocleous offers a contemporary understanding of the modern state through the unusual medium of its body mind and personality and through the space it occupies in the social world It's a work that not only draws upon our existing imagination of the state but also feeds it Professor Robert Fine What is the connection between Ronald Reagan's bottom and the King's head Why are weather maps profoundly ideological How do corporations get away with murder Who are the scum of the earth In this book Mark Neocleous explores such questions through a critique of what he describes as the statist political imaginary Unpicking this imaginary while also avoiding traditional approaches to state power the book examines the way that the state has been imagined in terms traditionally associated with human subjectivity body mind personality and home Around these themes and through an engagement with the work of a diverse range of writers Neocleous weaves a set of arguments concerning the three icons of the political imagination the political collective the sovereign agency and the enemy figure From these arguments he draws out some telling connections between the role of the state in fabricating order the social and juridical power of capital and the relation between fascism and bourgeois ideology

Death Sentence Michael Dahl,2015 The most fearsome book in the Library of Doom contains a single sentence but if it is read the reader will vanish into nothingness Now the book is on the loose and there's only one hero who can read its story

The Death Penalty in American Cinema Yvonne Kozlovsky-Golan,Yvonne Koslovsky-Golan,2014-04-04 Killing as punishment in the USA whether ordained by lynch mob or by the courts reflects a paradox of the American nation liberal pluralistic yet prone to lethal violence This book examines the encounter between the legal history of the death penalty in America and its cinematic representations through a comprehensive narrative and historical view of films dealing with this genre from the silent era to the present. It addresses central issues including racial prejudice and attitudes towards the execution of women and discusses how cinema has chosen to deal with them. It explores how such films as Michael Curtiz's 20 000 Years in Sing Sing and Fritz Lang's The Fury, Errol Morris's documentary The Thin Blue Line, John Singleton's Rosewood and Frank Darabont's death row movie The Green Mile have helped to shape real historical developments and public perceptions by bringing into sharper relief the legal, social and cultural tensions associated with capital punishment. In the process, Yvonne Kozlovksy Golan provides the reader with a superb understanding of the complexities of the death penalty through US history.
