Capital Spaces The Multiple Complex Public Spaces Of A Global City:

Capital Spaces Matthew Carmona, Filipa Matos Wunderlich, 2013-05-02 In recent years it has become common place to hear claims that public space in cities across the globe has become the exclusive preserve of the wealthy and privileged at the expense of the needs of wider society Whether it is the privatization of public space through commercial developments like shopping malls and business parks the gentrification of existing spaces by campaigns against perceived anti social behaviour or the increasing domination of public areas by private transport in the form of the car the urban public space is seen as under threat But are things really that bad Has the market really become the sole factor that influences the treatment of public space Have the financial and personal interests of the few really come to dominate those of the many To answer these questions Matthew Carmona and Filipa Wunderlich have carried out a detailed investigation of the modern public spaces of London that most global of cities They have developed a new typology of public spaces applicable to all cities a typology that demonstrates that to properly assess contemporary urban places means challenging the over simplification of current critiques Global cities are made up of many overlapping public spaces good and bad this book shows how to analyze this complexity and to understand it

The Urbanism of Exception Martin J. Murray, 2017-03-10 This book challenges the conventional modernist inspired understanding of urbanization as a universal process tied to the ideal typical model of the modern metropolis with its origins in the grand Western experience of city building At the start of the twenty first century the familiar idea of the city or urbanism as we know it has experienced such profound mutations in both structure and form that the customary epistemological categories and prevailing conceptual frameworks that predominate in conventional urban theory are no longer capable of explaining the evolving patterns of city making Global urbanism has increasingly taken shape as vast distended city regions where urbanizing landscapes are increasingly fragmented into discontinuous assemblages of enclosed enclaves characterized by global connectivity and concentrated wealth on the one side and distressed zones of neglect and impoverishment on the other These emergent patterns of what might be called enclave urbanism have gone hand in hand with the new modes of urban governance where the crystallization of privatized regulatory regimes has effectively shielded wealthy enclaves from public oversight and interference

Providing Public Space in a Contemporary Metropolis Claudio De Magalhães, Louie Sieh, 2024-06-26 Increasingly public space provision and management are being transferred from the public sector to real estate developers private sector organisations voluntary groups and community bodies Contrasting the more historical horizontal character of London with the intense street life of high rise Hong Kong this book tells the story of the two cities relationships with non traditional forms of public space governance The authors consider the implications for the publicness of these complex spaces and the challenges and impacts that different forms of provision have on those with a stake in them and on the cities as a whole
