

A movie poster for the film 'Captured'. The background is a dark, atmospheric scene of a prison at night, with a large building and several lit windows. In the foreground, a black and white checkered floor leads towards the building. A single, vibrant purple rose lies on the floor, with a metal chain attached to it. The title 'Captured' is written in a large, elegant, purple cursive font across the middle of the image.

Skateboard Video Duncan McDuie-Ra, 2021-09-20 This book is about skateboard video and experimental ways of thinking about cities. It makes a provocative argument to consider skate video as an archive of the city from below. Here, below has a dual meaning. First, below refers to an unofficial archive, a subaltern history of urban space. Second, below refers to the angle from which skateboarders and filmmakers gaze upon, capture, and consume the city from the ground up. Since taking to the streets in the early 1980s, skateboarding has been captured on film, video tape, and digital memory cards, edited into consumable forms and circulated around the world. Videos are objects amenable to ethnographic analysis while also archiving exercises in urban ethnography by their creators. I advocate for taking skate video seriously as a fragile archive of the urban.
