Learning Science Through Computer Games and Simulations National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Science Education, Committee on Science Learning: Computer Games, Simulations, and Education, 2011-04-12 At a time when scientific and technological competence is vital to the nation's future the weak performance of U S students in science

reflects the uneven quality of current science education Although young children come to school with innate curiosity and intuitive ideas about the world around them science classes rarely tap this potential Many experts have called for a new approach to science education based on recent and ongoing research on teaching and learning In this approach simulations and games could play a significant role by addressing many goals and mechanisms for learning science the motivation to learn science conceptual understanding science process skills understanding of the nature of science scientific discourse and argumentation and identification with science and science learning To explore this potential Learning Science Computer Games Simulations and Education reviews the available research on learning science through interaction with digital simulations and games It considers the potential of digital games and simulations to contribute to learning science in schools in informal out of school settings and everyday life The book also identifies the areas in which more research and research based development is needed to fully capitalize on this potential Learning Science will guide academic researchers developers publishers and entrepreneurs from the digital simulation and gaming community and education practitioners and policy makers toward the formation of research and development partnerships that will facilitate rich intellectual collaboration Industry government agencies and foundations will play a significant role through start up and ongoing support to ensure that digital games and simulations will not only excite and entertain but also motivate and educate
