Cinema Approaching Reality Locating Chinese Film Theory:

Cinema Approaching Reality Victor Fan, 2016 Victor Fan brings together Chinese and Euro American film theories and theorists to engage in critical debates about film in Shanghai and Hong Kong from the 1920s through the 1940s Cinema Approaching Reality Victor Fan, 2015-03-20 In Cinema Approaching Reality Victor Fan brings together for the first time Chinese and Euro American film theories and theorists to engage in critical debates about film in Shanghai and Hong Kong from the 1920s through 1940s His point of departure is a term popularly employed by Chinese film critics during this period bizhen often translated as lifelike but best understood as approaching reality What these Chinese theorists mean in Fan's reading is that the cinematographic image is not a form of total reality but it can allow spectators to apprehend an effect as though they had been there at the time when an event actually happened Fan suggests that the phrase approaching reality can help to renegotiate an aporia blind spot that influential French film critic Andr Bazin wrestled with the cinematographic image is a trace of reality yet reality is absent in the cinematographic image and the cinema makes present this absence as it reactivates the passage of time Fan enriches Bazinian cinematic ontology with discussions on cinematic reality in Republican China and colonial Hong Kong putting Western theorists from Bazin and Kracauer to Baudrillard Agamben and Deleuze into dialogue with their Chinese counterparts The result is an eye opening exploration of the potentialities in approaching cinema anew especially in the photographic materiality following its digital turn Chinese Revolutionary Cinema Jessica Ka Yee Chan, 2019-01-24 Engaging with fiction films devoted to heroic tales from the decade and a half between 1949 and 1966 this book reconceives state propaganda as aesthetic experiments that not only radically transformed acting cinematography and screenwriting in socialist China but also articulated a new socialist film theory and criticism Rooted in the interwar avant garde and commercial cinema Chinese revolutionary cinema as a state cinema for the newly established People's Republic adapted Chinese literature for the screen incorporated Hollywood narration appropriated Soviet montage theory and orchestrated a new glamorous socialist star culture In the wake of decolonisation Chinese film journals were quick to project and disseminate the country's redefined self image to Asia Africa and Latin America as they helped to create an alternative vision of modernity and internationalism Revealing the historical contingency of the term propaganda Chan uncovers the visual aural kinaesthetic sexual and ideological dynamics that gave rise to a new aesthetic of revolutionary heroism in world cinema Based on extensive archival research this book's focus on the distinctive rhetoric of post war socialist China will be of value to East Asian Cinema scholars Chinese Studies academics and those interested in the history of twentieth century socialist culture The Multilingual Screen Tijana Mamula, Lisa Patti, 2016-06-30 The Multilingual Screen is the first edited volume to offer a wide ranging exploration of the place of multilingualism in cinema investigating the ways in which linguistic difference and exchange have shaped and continue to shape the medium's history Moving across a vast array of geographical historical and theoretical contexts from Japanese colonial filmmaking to the French New Wave to contemporary artists moving image the essays collected here address the aesthetic political and industrial significance of multilingualism in film production and reception In grouping these works together The Multilingual Screen discerns and emphasizes the areas of study most crucial to forging a renewed understanding of the relationship between cinema and language diversity In particular it reassesses the methodologies and frameworks that have influenced the study of filmic multilingualism to propose that its force is also and perhaps counterintuitively a silent one While most studies of the subject have explored linguistic difference as a largely audible phenomenon manifested through polyglot dialogues or through the translation of monolingual dialogues for international audiences The Multilingual Screen traces some of its unheard histories contributing to a new field of inquiry based on an attentiveness to multilingualism's work beyond the soundtrack

The Moving Form of Film Lúcia Nagib, Stefan Solomon, 2023 The Moving Form of Film Historicizing the Medium through Other Media charts the ways in which crossing borders between film and other arts and media can provide an encompassing inclusive and non teleological understanding of film history Evolutionary narratives of cinema have traditionally adopted the Second World War as a watershed that separates classical Hollywood films from modern European productions a scheme that subjects the entire world to the cinematic history of two hegemonic centres In turn histories of film as a technological medium have focused on the specificity of cinema as it gradually separated from the other art and medial forms theatre dance fairground spectacle
