Women's Ways of Making Maureen Daly Goggin, Shirley K Rose, 2021-04-21 Women's Ways of Making draws attention to material practices those that the hands perform as three epistemologies: an episteme, a techne, and a phronesis that together give pointed consideration to making as a rhetorical embodied endeavor. Combined, these epistemologies show that making is a form of knowing that episteme, knowing how, techne, and wisdom, making, phronesis. Since the Enlightenment, embodied knowledge creation has been overlooked, ignored, or disparaged as inferior to other forms of expression or thinking that seem to leave the material world behind. Privileging the hand over the eye, as the work in this collection does, thus problematizes the way in which the eye has been co-opted by thinkers as the mind's tool of investigation. Contributors to this volume argue that other senses—touch, taste, smell, hearing—are keys to knowing one's materials. Only when all these ways of knowing are engaged can making be understood as a rhetorical practice. In Women's Ways of Making, contributors explore ideas of making that run the gamut from videos produced by beauty vloggers to zine production and art programs at women's correctional facilities. Bringing together senior scholars, new voices, and a fresh take on material rhetoric, this book will be of interest to a broad range of readers in composition and rhetoric. Christopher Nolan, Darren Mooney, 2018-10-10

Christopher Nolan is one of the defining directors of the 21st century. Few of his contemporaries can compete in terms of critical and commercial success, let alone cultural impact. His films have a rare ability to transcend audience expectations, appealing to both casual moviegoers and dyed-in-the-wool cineastes. Nolan's work ranges from gritty crime thrillers (Memento, Insomnia) to spectacular blockbusters (the Dark Knight trilogy, Inception). They have taken audiences from the depths of space (Interstellar) to the harsh realities of war (Dunkirk). And they have pushed the boundaries of the possible in modern movie making. This critical history covers his complete filmography, tracing his career from film student to indie darling to Oscar-nominated auteur.
