Constructions And Language Change Trends In Linguistics Studies And Monographs Tilsim:

Constructions and Language Change Alexander Bergs, Gabriele Diewald, 2008-11-03 Studies in diachronic linguistics increasingly acknowledge that linguistic change is highly context dependent and somehow tied to constructions as linguistic units This is the first volume to investigate the role of constructions and the potential of constructional approaches in linguistic change The contributions in this volume comprise both theoretical and empirical studies all of which are accessible for a general audience While some contributions explicitly aim at comparing and unifying concepts from both traditional grammatical theories and recent construction grammar approaches others offer detailed case studies of exemplary problems from a constructional point of view The papers offer a cross linguistic perspective and deal with a number of different language families ranging from Germanic to Austronesian Free Variation in Grammar Kristin Kopf, Thilo Weber, 2023-10-15 Recent years have seen a growing interest in grammatical variation a core explanandum of grammatical theory The present volume explores questions that are fundamental to this line of research First the question of whether variation can always and completely be explained by intra or extra linguistic predictors or whether there is a certain amount of unpredictable or free grammatical variation Second the question of what implications the in existence of free variation would hold for our theoretical models and the empirical study of grammar The volume provides the first dedicated book length treatment of this long standing topic Following an introductory chapter by the editors it contains ten case studies on potentially free variation in morphology and syntax drawn from Germanic Romance Uralic and Mayan Corpus linguistics Stefanowitsch, Anatol, 2020 Corpora are used widely in linguistics but not always wisely This book attempts to frame corpus linguistics systematically as a variant of the observational method The first part introduces the reader to the general methodological discussions surrounding corpus data as well as the practice of doing corpus linguistics including issues such as the scientific research cycle research design extraction of corpus data and statistical evaluation The second part consists of a number of case studies from the main areas of corpus linguistics lexical associations morphology grammar text and metaphor surveying the range of issues studied in corpus linguistics while at the same time showing how they fit into the methodology outlined in the first part Konnektoren als konstruktionale Grenzgänger Marlene Rummel, 2024-04-01 Konnektoren bildeten zwar mit let alone den Startschuss f r die Konstruktionsgrammatik r ckten danach aber aus ihrem Fokus m glicherweise auch deshalb weil sie auf mehreren Ebenen zum Verlassen ihrer Komfortzone einladen Auf der Formseite sind ihre Realisierungsm glichkeiten durch die Gr e und Variabilit t ihrer Slots komplexer als die Einheiten die bislang bevorzugt als Konstruktionen beschrieben wurden Auf der Bedeutungsseite verwischen sie die Grenzen von Kategorien wie Semantik Pragmatik oder Informationsstruktur indem sie sowohl an stabile Frames gekn pft sind als auch je nach Textsorte und kommunikativem Kontext unterschiedliche Pr ferenzen zeigen Sie werfen damit die Frage auf welche Realisierungsm glichkeiten als Konstruktionen gelten sollten sowie welche Vorlieben in die Konstruktionsbeschreibung geh ren und welche nicht Dieses Buch stellt sich den genannten Herausforderungen am Beispiel von weil da und denn Bisherige Annahmen bezuglich dieser Konnektoren werden einer kritischen Prüfung unterzogen und in ein konstruktionsgrammatisches Schema überführt das an drei verschiedenen Korpora erprobt und verfeinert wird um das Zusammenspiel von Form Funktion und Kontext konstruktional abzubilden

Language Dispersal, Diversification, and Contact Mily Crevels, Pieter Muysken, 2020-07-25 This book addresses the complex question of how and why languages have spread across the globe why do we find large language families distributed over a wide area in some regions while elsewhere we find clusters of very small families or language isolates What roles have agriculture geography climate ethnic identity and language ideologies played in language spread In this volume international experts in the field provide new answers to these and related questions drawing on the increasingly large databases available and on novel analytical research techniques The first part of the volume outlines some general issues and approaches in the study of language dispersal diversification and contact In the rest of the volume chapters compare the language and population histories of three major regions Island Southeast Asia Oceania Africa and South America which show particularly interesting contrasts in the distribution of languages and language families The volume is interdisciplinary in approach with insights from archaeology genetics anthropology and geography and will be of interest to a wide range of scholars interested in language diversity and contact

Discourse structure and narration: A diachronic view from Germanic Ulrike Demske, Barthe Bloom, 2025-06-20 The volume Discourse structure and narration A diachronic view from Germanic deals with questions of information structuring at discourse level focusing on narrative discourses More precisely it is about the contribution of grammatical devices to the organization of texts as well as their diagnostic potential for the narrative text type Although it is well known that information packaging had a much greater impact on the distribution of grammatical patterns in historical stages of a language than it does today so far many studies on the relationship between information structure and grammatical patterns do not go beyond the sentence level in other words they do not take into account the possible influence of the text type on the manifestation of certain grammatical patterns How and to which degree changes in grammatical patterns correlate or are affected by changes in either discourse and or narrative structure how the two layers interact with each other and affect each other and how such issues can be operationalized are still understudied This volume aims to shed more light on these issues by presenting eight papers which address these questions more or less explicitly As the research questions imply the papers all take a historical or diachronic perspective Another commonality between the studies is that they all focus on data from Germanic languages as we assume that by comparing closely related languages the relationships in question become more pronounced Specifically the languages in question are German Dutch English and Icelandic Understandably the contributions in this volume can only highlight some aspects of the complex relationship between grammar and narration s Addressing among others questions of narrative progression temporal structure reference tracking and discourse functions

the contributions discuss phenomena such as temporal adverbials at the left periphery as well as later in the clause left dislocation structures fronting of the finite verb in dependent and independent clauses linguistic means to express aspectual and tense information and the distribution of nominalization patterns across text types

A Grammar of Papapana Ellen Smith-Dennis, 2021-01-18 This monograph is not only the first comprehensive grammar of Papapana a previously undocumented and under described endangered language but the first full reference grammar of any Oceanic language of Bougainville Papua New Guinea despite this region displaying considerable linguistic innovation and language contact phenomena with numerous typologically significant features This book describes Papapana on various levels including phonology morphology and syntax in noun phrases and the verb complex and syntax at the clause and sentence level Throughout the grammar the described phenomena are related to the current research on typological and Oceanic linguistics Typologically unusual features of Papapana include multiple reduplication inverse number marking in the noun phrase and postverbal subject indexing The book also describes the sociolinguistic and historical context within which Papapana is spoken and highlights linguistic changes resulting from language contact The monograph fills an important gap in terms of grammatical descriptions of Bougainville Oceanic languages and makes a significant contribution to the field of Oceanic linguistics and to future comparative linguistic and typological research

Predication in African Languages James Essegbey, Enoch O. Aboh, 2024-07-15 This book discusses patterns of predication and their grammatical and semantic implications in a variety of African languages It covers several prominent topics about predication in the languages including locative predication expressions of tense aspect and mood in relation to verbal complexes and verb serialisation verb semantics and nominalization of predicates The chapters take inspiration from Felix Ameka's approach to the study of language according to which the main task of a linguist is to collaborate with language users to understand communicative practices in different contexts and to uncover how these practices impact grammatical and semantic aspects of the language Accordingly the descriptions and analyses in this book serve to understand language variation in different ecologies rather than to impose pre established descriptive frames on less described languages Together the chapters in the book represent a bird's eye view of predication strategies in various African languages and can therefore serve as readings for both introductory and advanced level courses on predication from a typological or comparative perspective

Lost in Change Svenja Kranich, Tine Breban, 2021-06-15 While research on language change has formulated robust empirical generalisations about processes and motivations underlying the emergence and spread of linguistic elements their decline and loss is less well understood So far a systematic investigation into the processes and motivations of decline and loss in language change is lacking This book is a first step towards remedying this state of affairs It brings together a varied set of empirical investigations into decline and loss spanning morphology syntax and the lexicon in different languages Their authors apply diverse methodologies and represent different theoretical approaches On the basis of this broad span of studies authors and editors propose generalisations related to decline and loss and assess similarities and differences with processes and motivations of emergence and spread The book aims to inspire and provide hypotheses for further studies of decline and loss It will appeal to historical linguists and others interested in language change Language George Melville Bolling, Bernard Bloch, 2008 Proceedings of the annual meeting of the Society in v 1 11 1925 34 After 1934 they appear in Its Bulletin
