A Comprehensive Sketch of the Merrimac and Monitor Naval Battle Theophile François Henri Poilpot, 1886 USS Monitor John D. Broadwater, 2012 Lavish illustrations, photographs, site drawings, and artifact sketches complement this informative and highly readable account of naval warfare. Buffs, amateurs, and professionals involved in maritime archaeology and Civil War aficionados will be intrigued and informed by USS Monitor: A Historic Ship Completes Its Final Voyage The Monitor & the Merrimac Dave Smith, David Rollin Smith, 1968 Illusions in Motion Erkki Huhtamo, 2023-08-22 Tracing the cultural material and discursive history of an early manifestation of media culture in the making. Beginning in the late eighteenth century, huge circular panoramas presented their audiences with resplendent representations that ranged from historic battles to exotic locations. Such panoramas were immersive but static. There were other panoramas that moved—hundreds, and probably thousands, of them. Their history has been largely forgotten. In Illusions in Motion, Erkki Huhtamo excavates this neglected early manifestation of media culture in the making. The moving panorama was a long painting that unscrolled behind a window by means of a mechanical cranking system, accompanied by a lecture, music, and sometimes sound and light effects. Showmen exhibited such panoramas in venues that ranged from opera houses to church halls, creating a market for mediated realities in both city and country. In the first history of this phenomenon, Huhtamo analyzes the moving panorama in all its complexity, investigating its relationship to other media and its role in the culture of its time. In his telling, the panorama becomes a window for observing media in operation. Huhtamo explores such topics as cultural forms that anticipated the moving panorama, theatrical panoramas, the diorama, the panoramania of the 1850s, and the career of Albert Smith, the most successful showman of that era. Competition with magic lantern shows marks the final flowering of the panorama in the late nineteenth century and the panorama's afterlife as a topos traced through its evocation in literature journalism science philosophy and propaganda Iron Coffin David A. Mindell, 2012-02-09 The USS Monitor famously battled the CSS Virginia the armored and refitted USS Merrimack at Hampton Roads in March 1862 This updated edition of David A Mindell's classic account of the ironclad warships and the human dimension of modern warfare commemorates the 150th anniversary of this historic encounter Mindell explores how mariners fighting blindly below the waterline lived in and coped with the metal monster they called the iron coffin He investigates how the ironclad technology new to war in the nineteenth century changed not only the tools but also the experience of combat and anticipated today's world of mechanized pushbutton warfare The writings of William Frederick Keeler the ship's paymaster inform much of this book as do the experiences of everyman sailor George Geer who held Keeler in some contempt Mindell uses their compelling stories and those of other shipmates to recreate the thrills and dangers of living and fighting aboard this superweapon Recently pieces of the Monitor wreck have been raised from their watery grave and with them information about the ship continues to be discovered A new epilogue describes the recovery of the Monitor turret and its display at the USS Monitor Museum in Newport News Virginia This sensitive and enthralling history of the USS Monitor ensures that this fateful ship and the men who served on it will be remembered for generations to come The Era of the Civil War--1820-1876 US Army Military History Research Collection, Benjamin Franklin Cooling (III), 1974 Statistical and Chronological History of the United States Navy, 1775-1907 Robert Wilden Neeser, 1909
