Development Theory And Practice Critical Perspectives:

Development Theory and Practice Uma Kothari, Martin Minogue, 2001-10-30 This text provides a critical assessment of dominant features of development theory and practice in such areas as globalisation governance social development participation feminism and postcolonialism civil society environment and development management Each chapter addresses a particular approach within development by setting out the orthodoxy and critically evaluates this before engaging more constructively with the challenges presented by contemporary development This approach will give students a clearer understanding of the debates within development today

Critical Perspectives on Student Development Theory Elisa S. Abes, 2016-06-14 The use of critical and post structural theories such as critical race theory intersectionality and queer theory to explore student development is relatively new Most current research looks beyond the individual to how systems of oppression such as racism ableism and heterosexism mediate student development and the nature of student development theory This volume offers some of the most contemporary thinking about student development by reviewing recent critical post structural scholarship offering new possibilities for using theoretical lenses and translating these theories into student affairs practice This is the 154th volume of this Jossey Bass higher education quarterly series An indispensable resource for vice presidents of student affairs deans of students student counselors and other student services professionals New Directions for Student Services offers guidelines and programs for aiding students in their total development emotional social physical and intellectual

Rethinking College Student Development Theory Using Critical Frameworks Elisa S. Abes, Susan R. Jones, D-L Stewart, 2023-07-03 A major new contribution to college student development theory this book brings third wave theories to bear on this vitally important topic The first section includes a chapter that provides an overview of the evolution of student development theories as well as chapters describing the critical and poststructural theories most relevant to the next iteration of student development theory These theories include critical race theory queer theory feminist theories intersectionality decolonizing indigenous theories and crip theories These chapters also include a discussion of how each theory is relevant to the central questions of student development theory The second section provides critical interpretations of the primary constructs associated with student development theory These constructs and their related ideas include resilience dissonance socially constructed identities authenticity agency context development consistency coherence stability and knowledge sources of truth and belief systems Each chapter begins with brief personal narratives on a particular construct the chapter authors then re envision the narrative s highlighted construct using one or more critical theories The third section will focus on implications for practice Specifically these chapters will consider possibilities for how student development constructs re envisioned through critical perspectives can be utilized in practice The primary audience for the book is faculty members who teach in graduate programs in higher education and student affairs and their students The book will also be useful to practitioners seeking guidance in working effectively with students across the convergence of multiple aspects of identity and development

The Oxford Handbook of Religion, Conflict, and Peacebuilding Atalia Omer, R. Scott Appleby, David Little, 2015-01-28 This volume provides a comprehensive and interdisciplinary account of the scholarship on religion conflict and peacebuilding Looking far beyond the traditional parameters of the field the contributors engage deeply with the legacies of colonialism missionary activism secularism orientalism and liberalism as they relate to the discussion of religion violence and nonviolent transformation and resistance Featuring numerous case studies from various contexts and traditions the volume is organized thematically into five different parts It begins with an up to date mapping of scholarship on religion and violence and religion and peace The second part explores the challenges related to developing secularist theories on peace and nationalism broadening the discussion of violence to include an analysis of cultural and structural forms In the third section the chapters explore controversial topics such as religion and development religious militancy and the freedom of religion as a keystone of peacebuilding The fourth part locates notions of peacebuilding in spiritual practice by focusing on constructive resources within various traditions the transformative role of rituals youth and interfaith activism in American university campuses religion and solidarity activism scriptural reasoning as a peacebuilding practice and an extended reflection on the history and legacy of missionary peacebuilding The volume concludes by looking to the future of peacebuilding scholarship and the possibilities for new growth and progress Bringing together a diverse array of scholars this innovative handbook grapples with the tension between theory and practice cultural theory and the legacy of the liberal peace paradigm offering provocative elastic and context specific insights for strategic peacebuilding processes

Applications of Anthropology Sarah Pink, 2005-12-01 At the beginning of the twenty first century the demand for anthropological approaches understandings and methodologies outside academic departments is shifting and changing Through a series of fascinating case studies of anthropologists experiences of working with very diverse organizations in the private and public sector this volume examines existing and historical debates about applied anthropology It explores the relationship between the pure and the impure academic and applied anthropology the question of anthropological identities in new working environments new methodologies appropriate to these contexts the skills needed by anthropologists working in applied contexts where multidisciplinary work is often undertaken issues of ethics and responsibility and how anthropology is perceived from the outside The volume signifies an encouraging future both for the application of anthropology outside academic departments and for the new generation of anthropologists who might be involved in these developments

Religious Organisations in Sub-Saharan Africa and South Asia Carole Rakodi, 2024-02-05 This book explores the links between religion states social welfare and social change in Sub Saharan Africa and South Asia Building on the author s previous analysis of how religious beliefs practices and values influence social behaviour and relationships especially within families this book focuses on the organisational characteristics of religions and societies The book considers how Muslim Christian Hindu and Buddhist organisations working in different contexts express the religious values of charity and compassion in practical activities to improve social welfare Drawing on extensive empirical research the book maps the organisations involved identifying the factors that explain their choice of activities sources of funding and modes of organisation and highlighting similarities and differences between the religious traditions It considers the involvement of religious actors in school level education as well as in international humanitarian relief and reconstruction and addresses the claim that religious organisations have distinctive features that give them comparative advantages Finally the book reviews research on the roles of religious values and organisations in resisting or promoting social change focusing on women s movements especially their campaigns for changes in family law and the quest for social and legal recognition for sexual and gender minorities The book s wide coverage of two subcontinents in the Global South and several important religious traditions will be of interest to researchers and students in the fields of sociology international development religious studies anthropology and area studies as well as to those engaged in policy and action who are looking to improve their understanding of the complex social cultural political and religious contexts in which they work

Regional Developmentalism through Law Jonathan Bashi Rudahindwa, 2018-05-20 Offering a study of regionalism in Africa and investigating the ways in which law can be used to address the issues raised by regional processes on the continent this book examines the African Economic Community considering that it has been entrusted to coordinate and to harmonize policies between various Regional Economic Communities RECs across the continent thereby influencing the continent s approach towards regional integration It seeks to identify how law can be used to strengthen the African RECs while ensuring that they achieve their goal of promoting regional development across the continent Drawing upon economic and political theories and using a critical doctrinal analysis of legal texts and norms the book uncovers the legal and economic underpinnings of the model of regional integration followed by the regional schemes operating under the banner of the AEC aiming to contribute to the search for effective methods to ensure the success of these various initiatives Proposing the concept of Regional Developmentalism Through Law as the most suitable conceptual framework to support the effective establishment of an African Economic Community this book will be of interest to researchers academics and policy makers interested in the correlation between law regional integration and development in Africa
