GASOLINE ENGINE AND FUEL SYSTEM

FIG. 10
Fuel system/gasoline engine

AFTER THE ENGINE STARTS

As soon as the engine starts, adjust the choke to a point where the engine operates without stalling idle, as the engine warms up, open the choke all the way by gradually pulling the choke control handle all the way in. Do not use the choke to enrich the fuel mixture except when starting the engine.

Also check the oil pressure and alternator/generator indicators. Refer to pages 9 and 10.

Stopping Fuel Engine

To prevent excessive wear of engine at the loading station, shut the engine down before leaving operation of large, medium, or small tractors. The engine should be shut at high idle or at approximately 1400 r.p.m., until the torque clutch pump reaches its normal neutral position before stopping. To stop the engine, release the engine stop by moving the control lever all the way up to the low idle position. Take both the ignition key and the operator's key to the "OFF" position. It is advisable to allow the generator and oil valve of the engine to be stopped for any length of time.

Note: When the engine is not operating, or the engine has stalled, and the operator leaves the operator, the key must be turned to the "OFF" position to prevent battery discharge.

CLEANING THE FUEL STRAINER AND SEDIMENT BOWL

Clean the fuel strainer and sediment bowl about every 100 hours of operation. See FIG. 11A. To do this, proceed as follows:

FIG. 11A
Fuel system showing the place fuel should be cleaned.
