Color of Inland and Coastal Waters Dmitry Pozdnyakov, H. Grassl, 2003-01-31 The inorganic and organic water constituents often called color producing agents CPAs responsible for water color are generally referred to as water quality parameters Utilization of water color for assessment of water quality parameters can be achieved by using the established techniques in aquatic optics attained over many decades Aquatic optics can be subdivided according to whether the natural water body is salty marine inland or fresh limnological or coastal often brackish The authors describe the transformation of water color under varying natural and anthropogenically driven conditions and for the first time in a quantitative manner a closed circle of issues related to remote sensing of water quality in optically complex waters generally inherent to inland and marine coastal waters Primarily the text synthesizes the solutions of problems in remote sensing incorporating mathematics hydrobiology hydrochemistry atmospheric optics and ecology

Concha, Marie-Helene Rio , Heather Bouman, 2024-11-12 Marine ecosystems are open and dissipative systems that rely on an external energy source light for their sustenance The magnitude of the light flux and the spectral quality of the light field which determines colour determine the rate of marine photosynthesis by phytoplankton in the ocean and the types of phytoplankton communities that flourish in different parts of the ocean and in different seasons Ocean colour determined by the spectral quality of light scattered out of the sea and back into the atmosphere can be monitored using satellite sensors and used to map the distribution of the major phytoplankton pigment chlorophyll a at global scales Remote sensing of ocean colour first realised in 1977 has revolutionised the field of biological oceanography Over the years the quality of satellite products has continued to improve and the range of products available has extended beyond chlorophyll concentration to encompass many variables of interest to biological oceanography and ocean biogeochemistry However it is well recognized that satellite observations have to be integrated with and complemented by field measurements and modelling to obtain the full picture The research topic proposed will cover a range of recent developments in ocean colour remote sensing and allied fields
