Fairey, D. S. Loch, John G. Hampton, J. E. Ferguson, 1997 Published in association with the International Herbage Seed Production Research Group this volume and its companion provide the definitive resource for anyone involved in the breeding and commercial production of grass and legume seeds whether for grazing systems horticulture or recreation Accessibility and Acceptability in Technical Manuals Inger Lassen, 2003-05-01 Accessibility and Acceptability in Technical Manuals is written for an audience with a general interest in readability studies linguistics and technical writing With the main emphasis on technical manuals the book is primarily targeted at those who have a special interest in the design and use of utility texts and how these texts are received and understood by a multifaceted audience Accessibility is not a new research area and many explanations have been offered over the past years as to why non experts often have difficulties in comprehending texts written by technological experts This book offers a new approach to accessibility studies by exploring not only style but also attitudes to style by asking text consumers which style they prefer for different parts of the manual A key role is played by the Systemic Functional Linguistics notion of grammatical metaphor a stylistic choice that is commonly used in technical literature Grammatical metaphor although apparently obstructing the comprehension process of some readers is a common element in the preferred style that separates the insiders from the outsiders An explanation of this rather surprising result is offered by resorting to Critical Discourse Analysis Agricultural mechanization and agricultural transformation Diao, Xinshen, Silver, Jed, Takeshima, Hiroyuki, 2016-04-29 A renewed focus on agriculture's potential contribution to economic transformation in Africa has resulted in increased attention paid to agricultural mechanization African agriculture still relies predominantly on human muscle power despite anecdotal evidence on urbanization and rising rural wages in contrast to other developing regions that have experienced rapid increases in agricultural mechanization during the past few decades Past state led mechanization pushes in Africa often failed due to insufficient understanding of the nature of demand for mechanization technologies among farmers and insufficient knowledge of private sector functions This background paper reviews the factors likely to influence farmer demand for mechanization in Africa and details different existing and potential mechanization supply models Although an empirical analysis of mechanization demand and the effectiveness of supply chains is beyond the scope of this paper in part due to data limitations this paper suggests that demand for mechanization may be emerging in some parts of Africa It also suggests that private sector driven supply models are better positioned to meet this demand than direct government involvement and certain types of subsidized programs The paper then identifies possible areas for government support to complement private sector leadership in developing mechanization supply chains Nevertheless significant further research is required to better understand the changing nature of mechanization demand in Africa and the extent and effectiveness of different supply models in meeting it

White Gold: The Commercialisation of Rice Farming in the Lower Mekong Basin Rob Cramb, 2020-01-03 This open access book is about understanding the processes involved in the transformation of smallholder rice farming in the Lower Mekong Basin from a low yielding subsistence activity to one producing the surpluses needed for national self sufficiency and a high value export industry For centuries farmers in the Basin have regarded rice as white gold reflecting its centrality to their food security and well being In the past four decades rice has also become a commercial crop of great importance to Mekong farmers augmenting but not replacing its role in securing their subsistence This book is based on collaborative research to a compare the current situation and trajectories of rice farmers within and between different regions of the Lower Mekong b explore the value chains linking rice farmers with new technologies and input and output markets within and across national borders and c understand the changing role of government policies in facilitating the on going evolution of commercial rice farming An introductory section places the research in geographical and historical context Four major sections deal in turn with studies of rice farming value chains and policies in Northeast Thailand Central Laos Southeastern Cambodia and the Mekong Delta The final section examines the implications for rice policy in the region as a whole Agricultural mechanization services, rice productivity, and farm/plot size: Insights from Myanmar Myanmar Agriculture Policy Support Activity (MAPSA),2023-07-27 The relationship between productivity and farm size has been at the center of considerable debate Agricultural mechanization that is rapidly taking off in a large number of low and middle income countries has been identified as one of the emerging technologies in these settings with a critical yet complex influence on this productivity size relation However knowledge gaps remain as how agricultural transformation due to the adoption of new technologies and the change in factor costs such as mechanization fees are associated with this productivity size relation In the case of Myanmar where mechanization use has dramatically increased over the last decade we find a significant inverse productivity plot size relationship with small rice plots having productivity levels approximately 30 percent higher than large plots However rising mechanization fees more so in conflict affected townships attenuated this inverse relation between rice productivity yield and profit per land and plot size substantially These results primarily hold on the largest rice plot cultivated by each farmer but also generally hold when comparing total rice area and major non rice area Our results are likely explained by the fact that in Myanmar smallholders have become more dependent on mechanization services than larger farms who can rely on their own machines do that alternatives to mechanization services have become scarce as mechanization use changed little despite these price increases and that mechanization service costs account for a significant share of the total production costs among smallholders
