Collecting The Dead Archaeology And The Reburial Issue:

Collecting the Dead Cressida Fforde, 2004-09-23 The reburial question has had wide repercussions for those who involved. The topic is of continuing relevance for archaeologists anthropologists and museum professionals as well as for many indigenous groups worldwide. This book focuses on Australia as a background to the documentation and examination of the controversial reburial issue. A Future for Archaeology Peter J. Ucko, 2006 Over the last thirty years issues of culture identity and meaning have moved out of the academic sphere to become central to politics and society at all levels from the local to the global. Archaeology has been at the forefront of these moves towards a greater engagement with the non academic world often in an extremely practical and direct way for example in the disputes about the repatriation of human burials. Such disputes have been central to the recognition that previously marginalised groups have rights in their own past which are important for their future. The essays in this book look back at some of the most important events where a role for an archaeology concerned with the past in the present first emerged and look forward to the practical and theoretical issues now central to a socially engaged discipline and shaping its future. This book is published in honour of Professor Peter Ucko who has played an unparalleled role in promoting awareness of the core issues in this volume among archaeologists.

Contesting Human Remains in Museum Collections Tiffany Jenkins, 2010-12-14 An examination of the construction of contestation over human remains from a sociological perspective this work advances an emerging area of academic research setting the terms of debate synthesizing disparate ideas making sense of a broader cultural focus on dead bodies in the contemporary period. Archaeologists and the Dead Howard Williams, Melanie Giles, 2016-06-24 This volume addresses the relationship between archaeologists and the dead through the many dimensions of their relationships in the field through practical and legal issues in the lab through their analysis and interpretation and in their written visual and exhibitionary practice disseminated to a variety of academic and public audiences. Written from a variety of perspectives its authors address the experience effect ethical considerations and cultural politics of working with mortuary archaeology. Whilst some papers reflect institutional or organisational approaches others are more personal in their view creating exciting and frank insights into contemporary issues which have hitherto often remained unspoken amongst the discipline. Reframing funerary archaeologists as death workers of a kind the contributors reflect on their own experience to provide both guidance and inspiration to future practitioners arguing strongly that we have a central role to play in engaging the public with themes of mortality and commemoration through the lens of the past. Spurred by the recent debates in the UK papers from Scandinavia Austria Italy the US and the mid Atlantic frame these issues within a much wider international context which highlights the importance of cultural and historical context in which this work takes place. Museum Revolutions Simon Knell, Suzanne MacLeod, Sheila Watson, 2007-09-12 This single volume museum studies reference title explores the ways in which museums are shaped and configured and how they themselves attempt to shape and change the world around them. Written by a leading group of museum professionals and academics from around the world and including new research the chapters reveal the diverse and subtle means by which museums engage and in so doing change and are changed The authors span over 200 years discussing national museums ecomuseums society museums provincial galleries colonial museums the showman s museum and science centres Topics covered include disciplinary practices ethnic representation postcolonial politics economic aspiration social reform indigenous models conceptions of history urban regeneration sustainability sacred objects a sense of place globalization identities social responsibility controversy repatriation human remains drama learning and education Capturing the richness of the museum studies discipline Museum Revolutions is the ideal text for museum studies courses providing a wide range of interlinked themes and the latest thought and research from experts in the field It is invaluable for those students and museum professionals who want to understand the past present and future of the museum

The Routledge Companion to Indigenous Repatriation Cressida Fforde,C. Timothy McKeown,Honor Keeler,2020-03-05 This volume brings together Indigenous and non Indigenous repatriation practitioners and researchers to provide the reader with an international overview of the removal and return of Ancestral Remains The Ancestral Remains of Indigenous peoples are today housed in museums and other collecting institutions globally They were taken from anywhere the deceased can be found and their removal occurred within a context of deep power imbalance within a colonial project that had a lasting effect on Indigenous peoples worldwide Through the efforts of First Nations campaigners many have returned home However a large number are still retained In many countries the repatriation issue has driven a profound change in the relationship between Indigenous peoples and collecting institutions It has enabled significant steps towards resetting this relationship from one constrained by colonisation to one that seeks a more just dignified and truthful basis for interaction The history of repatriation is one of Indigenous perseverance and success The authors of this book contribute major new work and explore new facets of this global movement They reflect on nearly 40 years of repatriation its meaning and value impact and effect This book is an invaluable contribution to repatriation practice and research providing a wealth of new knowledge to readers with interests in Indigenous histories self determination and the relationship between collecting institutions and Indigenous peoples

Collections Management as Critical Museum Practice Cara Krmpotich,Alice Stevenson,2024-07-22 There is a common misconception that collections management in museums is a set of rote procedures or technical practices that follow universal standards of best practice This volume recognises collections management as a political critical and social project involving considerable intellectual labour that often goes unacknowledged within institutions and in the fields of museum and heritage studies Collections Management as Critical Museum Practice brings into focus the knowledges value systems ethics and workplace pragmatics that are foundational for this work Rather than engaging solely with cultural modifications such as Indigenous care practices the book presents local knowledge of place and material which is relevant to how collections are managed and cared for worldwide Through discussion of varied collection types management activities and professional roles contributors develop a contextualised reflexive practice for how core collections management standards are conceptualised negotiated and enacted Chapters span national museums in Brazil and Uganda to community led heritage work in Malaysia and Canada they explore complexities of numbering digitisation and description alongside the realities of climate change global pandemics and natural disasters The book offers a new definition of collections management travelling from what is done to care for collections to what is done to care for collections and their users Rather than use being an end goal it emerges as a starting point to rethink collections work
