Milward, 1938 Pepys's Later Diaries Samuel Pepys, C S Knighton, 2006-02-15 Pepys never resumed the personal Diary which he abandoned in 1669 when he feared wrongly that he was going blind He was one of the greatest accidental historians never intending to record for posterity only his own amusement But he did write several short diaries or journals at various key moments in his later life Each is a document of historical importance and all have the interest which attaches to any work of an acknowledged master of the diary form C S Knighton for the first time makes these diaries available to the general reader These fascinating documents enlarge and enhance our picture of Pepys as a politician and civil servant As always with Pepys the tone is engaging and revealing sometimes accidentally as often in these documents Pepys is anxious to present himself in the best possible light and does not scruple to lay the blame for any mishaps on others Army of Charles II John Childs, 2013-10-15 First published in 2006 This study looks at the first standing army in England during time of peace was that of Charles II until its dissolving Since the earliest times kings of England had raised temporary armies in time of war but the concept of a force which was not disbanded on the conclusion of hostilities was a radical departure
