Diaspora Online Ruxandra Trandafoiu,2013-04-01 After the fall of the Iron Curtain in 1989 millions of Romanians emigrated in search of work and new experiences they became engaged in an interrogation of what it meant to be Romanian in a united Europe and the globalized world Their thoughts feelings and hopes soon began to populate the virtual world of digital and mobile technologies This book chronicles the online cultural and political expressions of the Romanian diaspora using websites based in Europe and North America

Through online exchanges Romanians perform new types of citizenship articulated from the margins of the political field. The politicization of their diasporic condition is manifested through written and public protests against discriminatory work legislation, mobilization, lobbying, cultural promotion, and setting up associations and political parties that are proof of the gradual institutionalization of informal communications. Online discourse analysis supplemented by interviews with migrants, poets, and politicians involved in the process of defining new diasporic identities provide the basis of this book, which defines the new cultural and political practices of the Romanian diaspora.

Identity, Diaspora and Return in American Literature
 Maria Antònia Oliver-Rotger, 2014-09-19. This volume combines literary analysis and theoretical approaches to mobility, diasporic identities, and the construction of space to explore the different ways in which the notion of return shapes contemporary ethnic writing, such as fiction, ethnography, memoir, and film. Through a wide variety of ethnic experiences ranging from the Transatlantic Asian American, Latino, and Caribbean alongside their corresponding forms of displacement, political exile, war trauma, and economic migration, the essays in this collection connect the intimate experience of the returning subject to multiple locations, historical experiences, inter-subjective relations, and cultural interactions. They challenge the idea of the narrative of return as a journey back to the untouched roots and home that the ethnic subject left behind. Their diacritical approach combines on the one hand a sensitivity to the context and structural elements of modern diaspora and on the other an analysis of the individual psychological processes inherent to the experience of displacement and return, such as nostalgia, memory, and belonging. In the narratives of return analyzed in this volume, space and identity are never static or easily definable; rather, they are in process and subject to change as they are always entangled in the historical and inter-subjective relations ensuing from displacement and mobility. This book will interest students and scholars who wish to further explore the role of American literature within current debates on globalization, migration, and ethnicity.

The Internet and Formations of Iranian American-ness
 Donya Alinejad, 2017-03-02. This book explores how the children of Iranian immigrants in the US utilize the internet and develop digital identities. Taking Los Angeles, the long-time media and cultural center of Iranian diaspora, as its ethnographic field site, it investigates how various web platforms are embedded within the everyday social, cultural, and political lives of second-generation Iranian Americans. Donya Alinejad unpacks contemporary diasporic belonging through her discussion of the digital mediation of race, memory, and long-distance engagement in the historic Iranian Green Movement. The book argues that web media practices have become integral to Iranian American identity formation for this generation and introduces the notion of second-generation digital styles to explain how specific web applications afford new stylings of diaspora culture.
