Parameter Estimation and Uncertainty Quantification in Water Resources Modeling Philippe Renard, Frederick Delay, Daniel M. Tartakovsky, Velimir V. Vesselinov, 2020-04-22 Numerical models of flow and transport processes are heavily employed in the fields of surface soil and groundwater hydrology They are used to interpret field observations analyze complex and coupled processes or to support decision making related to large societal issues such as the water energy nexus or sustainable water management and food production Parameter estimation and uncertainty quantification are two key features of modern science based predictions When applied to water resources these tasks must cope with many degrees of freedom and large datasets Both are challenging and require novel theoretical and computational approaches to handle complex models with large number of unknown parameters
