

Conversations with Eritrean Political Prisoners

In 2001, after a devastating war with Ethiopia, a wide-ranging debate erupted within Eritrea over the conduct of leadership and the content of government policy. Much of the dissatisfaction was directed at President Isaias Afwerki, who refused to implement a newly ratified Constitution or permit the formation of political parties or to conduct national elections—or to allow a critical assessment of the Border War. This national conversation came to an abrupt halt in September when the government arrested its most prominent critics, shut down the private press, and smothered all public political discussion.

This book revisits that debate through interviews with five critics—top government officials and former liberation movement leaders—shortly before they disappeared into the Eritrean gulag. Since then, none has been seen, heard from or accounted for. Nor has any been charged with a crime. As these conversations reveal, the speakers knew what was in store for them—arrest and indefinite detention. This is why they spoke with veteran journalist and long-time friend of Eritrea Dan Connell. This book not only opens a critical window onto that seminal moment; it signals the persistence of the dream of a democratic future for a remarkable nation whose promise has yet to be fulfilled.

Dan Connell, a two-time MacArthur Foundation grantee, is the author of five books on Eritrea, including Against All Odds: A Chronicle of the Eritrean Revolution (1997); Rethinking Revolution (2003); and a two-volume Collected Articles on the Eritrean Revolution (2003, 2004). His reports and commentary have been carried by the BBC, Voice of America, AP, Reuters, The Boston Globe, The Guardian, Le Monde, Foreign Affairs, The Nation and others, and he has consulted for numerous aid agencies and human rights organizations. He is currently a lecturer in journalism and African politics at Simmons College, Boston, and lives with his wife, Debbie Hind, in Gloucester, Massachusetts.

Coercion Kelly M. Greenhill, Peter Krause, 2018 From the rising significance of non state actors to the increasing influence of regional powers the nature and conduct of international politics has arguably changed dramatically since the height of the Cold War Yet much of the literature on deterrence and compellence continues to draw whether implicitly or explicitly upon assumptions and precepts formulated in and predicated upon politics in a state centric bipolar world Coercion moves beyond these somewhat hidebound premises and examines the critical issue of coercion in the 21st century with a particular focus on new actors strategies and objectives in this very old bargaining game The chapters in this volume examine intra state inter state and transnational coercion and deterrence as well as both military and non military instruments of persuasion thus expanding our understanding of coercion for conflict in the 21st century Scholars have analyzed the causes dynamics and effects of coercion for decades but previous works have principally focused on a single state employing conventional military means to pressure another state to alter its behavior In contrast this volume captures fresh developments both theoretical and policy relevant This chapters in this volume focus on tools terrorism sanctions drones cyber warfare intelligence and forced migration actors insurgents social movements and NGOs and mechanisms trilateral coercion diplomatic and economic isolation foreign imposed regime change coercion of nuclear proliferators and two level games that have become more prominent in recent years but which have yet to be extensively or systematically addressed in either academic or policy literatures

Historical Dictionary of Eritrea Dan Connell, Tom Killian, 2010-10-14 The history of Eritrea is told in this reference through a chronology an introductory essay a bibliography and over 500 cross referenced dictionary entries on significant persons events places organizations and other aspects of Eritrea s history from the earliest times to the present This book is an excellent access point for students researchers and anyone wanting to know more about Eritrea edition of Life and Death Matters was a breakthrough text centralizing the experiences of those on the front lines of environmental crises and forging new paradigms for understanding how crises emerge and how different groups of actors respond to them. This second edition, fully updated with both expanded and new chapters, once again provides a benchmark for the field and opens important pathways for further research. Authors reassess the state of scholarship and grassroots activism in a new century when social and environmental systems are being reconceptualised within post 9/11 security and biosecurity frameworks when global warming and resource scarcity are not fears but realities when global power and politics are being realigned and when ecocide, ethnocide and genocide are daily tragedies. This bold new edition of Life and Death Matters will be a widely used textbook and essential reading for students, scholars and policy makers. The African Garrison State Kjetil Tronvoll, Daniel Rezene Mekonnen, 2014 WINNER 2015 CHOICE Outstanding Academic Title Award.

Examines Eritrea's deprivation of human rights since independence and its transformation into a militarised garrison state. When Eritrea gained independence in 1991, hopes were high for its transformation. In two decades, however, it became one of the most repressive in the world, effectively a militarised garrison state. This comprehensive and detailed analysis examines how the prospects for democracy in the new state turned to ashes, reviewing its development and in particular the loss of human rights and the state's political organisation. Beginning with judicial development in independent Eritrea, subsequent chapters scrutinise the rule of law and the court system, the hobbled process of democratisation and the curtailment of civil society, the Eritrean prison system and everyday life of detention and disappearances, and the situation of minorities in the country, first in general terms and then through exploration of a case study of the Kunama ethnic group. While the situation is bleak, it is not without hope; however, the conclusion focuses on opposition to the current regime and offers scenarios of regime change and how the coming of a second republic may yet reconfigure Eritrea politically. Kjetil Tronvoll is Professor of Peace and Conflict Studies at Bjoerknes College, founding and senior partner of the International Law and Policy Institute Oslo, and a former Professor of Human Rights at the University of Oslo. Daniel R. Mekonnen is Senior Legal Advisor, International Law and Policy Institute Oslo, and former Judge of the Zoba Maekel Provincial Court in Eritrea.

From Revolutionary Movements to Political Parties K. Deonandan, D. Close, 2007-12-09. This volume is a series of original articles analyzing eleven case studies from Africa and the Americas of revolutionary movements that have reconstituted themselves into formal political parties. The book analyzes the factors influencing the success and failure of these former politico-military movements within their new democratic contexts. Out of Africa Giovanni Carbone, 2017-12-15. The EU is struggling to cope with the so-called migration crisis that has emerged over the past few years. Designing the right policies to address immigration requires a deep understanding of its root causes. Why do Africans decide to leave their home countries? While the dream of a better life in Europe is likely part of the explanation, one also needs to examine the prevailing living conditions in the large and heterogeneous sub-Saharan region. This Report investigates the actual role of political economic demographic and environmental drivers in current migration flows It offers a comprehensive picture of major migration motives as well as of key trends Attention is also devoted to the role of climate change in promoting migration and to intra continental mobility two thirds of sub Saharan migrant flows start and end within the region Two country studies on Eritrea and Nigeria are also included to get a closer sense of local developments behind large scale migration to Europe      Soldiers, Martyrs, Traitors, and Exiles Tricia M. Redeker Hepner, 2009-08-11 The first ethnography of the Eritrean struggle for independence documents the transnational dimensions of revolution and nation building from the dual perspective of both Eritrea and its U S diaspora
