Commando Cultura Popular:

Ordinary Springboks Neil Roos, 2018-02-06 Springbok was a term used to describe the 200 000 white South African men who volunteered to serve during the Second World War. Volunteers developed bonds of comradeship and rites of passage were expressed in the idiom of the front. Without exception, volunteers nurtured hopes for some form of post-war social justice. Neil Roos provides a fresh approach in considering comradeship and social justice ethnographically as a way of focusing on ordinary Springboks' expectations and experiences during and after the war. As troops were demobilized, the contradictions of social justice in a colonial society were exposed. The majority of white veterans used the memory of service to stake their claim as white men who had served their country and to negotiate a better position for themselves within the context of segregated colonial society. However, social justice amongst white veterans did not necessarily assume a racist character. A small group of radical white veterans invoked their war experience and traditions of anti-fascism to challenge the very precepts of racialized South African society. These veterans featured in the struggle against apartheid during the 1950s and were especially prominent in the shift towards armed resistance to apartheid in 1961. Drawing heavily on the testimony of veterans, the book includes previously unreferenced documentary and visual material on the history of white servicemen, including official responses such as military intelligence reports on the political mood of serving soldiers as well as material produced by veterans' organisations such as the Springbok Legion, the War Veterans Torch Commando and the Memorable Order of Tin Hats. MOH Roos offers a new framework for examining the social, cultural and political history of whites and whiteness in South Africa. The book will appeal to those interested in the elaboration of apartheid society and the types of acceptance and resistance that it engendered and will also co

The Palgrave Handbook of Artistic and Cultural Responses to War since 1914 Martin Kerby, Margaret Baguley, Janet McDonald, 2018-12-05 This handbook explores a diverse range of artistic and cultural responses to modern conflict from Mons in the First World War to Kabul in the twenty-first century. With over thirty chapters from an international range of contributors ranging from the UK to the US and Australia and working across history, art, literature and media, it offers a significant interdisciplinary contribution to the study of modern war and our artistic and cultural responses to it. The handbook is divided into three parts. The first part explores how communities and individuals responded to loss and grief by using art and culture to assimilate the experience as an act of survival and resilience. The second part explores how conflict exerts a powerful influence on the expression and formation of both individual, group, racial, cultural and national identities and the role played by art, literature and education in this process. The third part moves beyond the actual experience of conflict and its connection with issues of identity to explore how individuals and society have made use of art and culture to commemorate the war. In this way, it offers a unique breadth of vision and perspective to explore how conflicts have been both represented and remembered since the early twentieth century.
