Development And The African Diaspora Place And The Politics Of Home:

Development and the African Diaspora Doctor Claire Mercer, Ben Page, Martin Evans, 2013-07-18 There has been much recent celebration of the success of African civil society in forging global connections through an ever growing diaspora Against the background of such celebrations this innovative book sheds light on the diasporic networks home associations whose economic contributions are being used to develop home Despite these networks being part of the flow of migrants resources back to Africa that now outweighs official development assistance the relationship between the flow of capital and social and political change are still poorly understood Looking in particular at Cameroon and Tanzania the authors examine the networks of migrants that have been created by making home associations international They argue that claims in favour of enlarging civil society in Africa must be placed in the broader context of the political economy of migration and wider debates concerning ethnicity and belonging They demonstrate both that diasporic development is distinct from mainstream development and that it is an uneven historical process in which some homes are better placed to take advantage of global connections than others In doing so the book engages critically with the current enthusiasm among policy makers for treating the African diaspora as an untapped resource for combating poverty Its focus on diasporic networks rather than private remittances reveals the particular successes and challenges diasporas face in acting as a group not least in mobilising members of the diaspora to fulfill obligations to home

Art, Creativity, and Politics in Africa and the Diaspora Abimbola Adelakun, Toyin Falola, 2018-07-26 This book explores the politics of artistic creativity examining how black artists in Africa and the diaspora create art as a procedure of self making Essays cross continents to uncover the efflorescence of black culture in national and global contexts and in literature film performance music and visual art Contributors place the concerns of black artists and their works within national and transnational conversations on anti black racism xenophobia ethnocentrism migration resettlement resistance and transnational feminisms Does art by the subaltern fulfill the liberatory potential that critics have ascribed to it What other possibilities does political art offer Together these essays sort through the aesthetics of daily life to build a thesis that reflects the desire of black artists and cultures to remake themselves and their world

Routledge Handbook of Diaspora Studies Robin Cohen, Carolin Fischer, 2018-09-03 The word diaspora has leapt from its previously confined use mainly concerned with the dispersion of Jews Greeks Armenians and Africans away from their natal homelands to cover the cases of many other ethnic groups nationalities and religions But this horizontal scattering of the word to cover the mobility of many groups to many destinations has been paralleled also by vertical leaps with the word diaspora being deployed to cover more and more phenomena and serve more and more objectives of different actors With sections on debating the concept complexity home and home making connections and critiques the Routledge Handbook of Diaspora Studies is likely to remain an authoritative reference for some time Each contribution includes a targeted list of references for further reading The editors have carefully blended established scholars of diaspora with younger scholars looking at how diasporas are constructed from below The adoption of a variety of conceptual perspectives allows for generalization contrasts and comparisons between cases In this exciting and authoritative collection over 40 scholars from many countries have explored the evolving use of the concept of diaspora its possibilities as well as its limitations This Handbook will be indispensable for students undertaking essays debates and dissertations in the field

Dismantling Diasporas Anastasia Christou, Elizabeth Mavroudi, 2016-03-09 Re-energising debates on the conceptualisation of diasporas in migration scholarship and in geography this work stresses the important role that geographers can play in interrupting assumptions about the spaces and processes of diaspora The intricate material and complex ways in which those in diaspora contest construct and perform identity politics development and place is explored throughout this book The authors dismantle diasporas in order to re theorise the concept through empirically grounded cutting edge global research This innovative volume will appeal to an international and interdisciplinary audience in ethnic migration and diaspora studies as it tackles comparative multi sited and multi method research through compelling case studies in a variety of contexts spanning the Global North and South The research in this book is guided by four interconnected themes the ways in which diasporas are constructed and performed through identity the body everyday practice and place how those in diaspora become politicised and how this leads to unities and disunities in relation to here and there the ways in which diasporas seek to connect and re connect with their homelands and the consequences of this in terms of identity formation employment and theorising who counts as a diaspora and how those in diaspora engage with homeland development and the challenges this creates
