and institutions It has unnecessarily consumed many young lives contributed to keep billions in poverty until today and fostered discrimination of women The knowledge gap and the confusion in the sector lined out in the book becomes evident when a national leader in a low income country declares a state of emergency in urban water and sanitation while at the same time global monitoring publishes an access figure for urban water of over 90% for the same country It is time to change this with an effective sector development concept for our partner countries and a more realistic discourse on global level The book argues for a sweeping rethinking and combines extended local knowledge lessons learned from history in advanced countries and thorough research on reforms in Francophone and Anglophone developing countries This was possible because the writer was working in Sub Saharan partner countries for almost 30 years as an integrated long term advisor in different sector institutions ministry regulator financing basket and different sizes of utilities and had the opportunity to cooperate closely with the main development partners The reader has the opportunity to obtain a comprehensive understanding of how the sector works and sector institutions in low income countries function and can discover the reasons behind success and failures of reforms The book also covers issues which have a significant influence on urban water and sanitation development but are hardly the subject of discussions It helps to make the shortcomings of the water and sanitation discourse more apparent and assist institutions to move beyond their present perceptions and agendas All of this makes the book different from other literature about urban water and sanitation in the developing world
