

The background of the entire image is a serene winter landscape. It features a calm body of water, possibly a lake or a wide river, which is partially frozen. The water's surface is dark and reflects the surrounding environment. On the left side, there is a thick, white snowbank that curves along the edge of the water. In the background, several tall, thin trees stand against a dark, overcast sky. The overall color palette is dominated by cool blues, whites, and greys, creating a cold and atmospheric setting.
