It was Southern's mentor, the genius English novelist Henry Green, who brought the book to the attention of a leading British publishing house which released it to high praise. A fast-paced dark comedy, Flash and Filigree established Terry Southern as one of the finest American prose stylists to emerge in Paris after the War. divDIV divDIVThis ebook features an illustrated biography of Terry Southern including rare photos and never before seen documents from the author's estate. div Candy Terry Southern, Mason Hoffenberg, 1958 Terry Southern and the American Grotesque David Tully, 2010-04-23 This work offers a critical biography and analysis of the varied literary output of novels, short stories, screenplays, poetry, articles, and essays of the American writer Terry Southern. His writings are examined in chronological order. David Tully was granted unprecedented access by Terry Southern's family to rare unpublished work from his private archives. The Magic Christian Terry Southern, 2022-11-24 The Magic Christian is a 1959 comic novel by American author Terry Southern. 1924-1995. About an odd billionaire who spends most of his time playing elaborate practical jokes on people. It is known for bringing Southern to the attention of filmmaker Stanley Kubrick, who had received a copy as a gift from Peter Sellers and subsequently hired him as co-writer for Dr. Strangelove in 1964 when Kubrick decided to make that film a black comedy satire rather than a straightforward thriller. Guy Grand is an odd billionaire who spends most of his time playing elaborate practical jokes on people. A big spender, he does not mind losing large sums of money to complete strangers if he can have a good laugh. All his escapades are designed to prove his theory that everyone has their price; it just depends on the amount one is prepared to pay them. B Is for Bad Cinema Claire Perkins, Constantine Verevis, 2014-02-19 B Is for Bad Cinema continues and extends but does not limit itself to the trends in film scholarship that have made cult and exploitation films and other low genres increasingly acceptable objects for critical analysis. Springing from discussions of taste and value in film, these original essays mark out the broad contours of bad, that is, aesthetically, morally, or commercially disreputable cinema. While some of the essays share a kinship with recent discussions of B movies and cult films, they do not describe a single aesthetic category or represent a single methodology or critical agenda but variously approach bad cinema in terms of aesthetics, politics, and cultural value. The volume covers a range of issues from the aesthetic and industrial mechanics of low-budget production through the terrain of audience responses and cinematic affect and on to the broader moral and ethical implications of the material. As a result, B Is for Bad Cinema takes an interest in a variety of film examples: overblown Hollywood blockbusters, faux pornographic works, and European art house films to consider those that lurk on the boundaries of acceptability.
