Environment and Human Survival on St. Kitts and Nevis

Bonham C. Richardson

A black and white photograph of a person, likely a migrant worker, working in a field. The person is wearing a light-colored shirt, dark trousers, and a wide-brimmed hat. They are bent over, using a long-handled tool, possibly a hoe or a machete, to work the soil. The background shows a hilly landscape with sparse vegetation. The overall tone of the image is somber and documentary.

Caribbean Migrants Bonham C. Richardson, 1983 General History of the Caribbean Brereton, Bridget, Martínez-Vergne, Teresita, Römer, René A., Silvestrini, Blanca G., UNESCO, 2004-12-31 The major objective of this publication is to provide an account and interpretation of the historical development of the region from around 1930 to the end of the century Within its compass are the turbulent thirties including the Cuban Revolution of 1933 and the labour protests in the British Caribbean of 1934 the strategic position occupied by the region during the Second World War the development of proletarian movements and trade unions and their links with political parties decolonization political evolution in the French and Dutch Caribbean and the turn to the left made in the 1970s by a number of Anglophone Caribbean countries notably Grenada Also examined are the Castro Revolution and its aftermath to the 1990s ethnicity and race consciousness and their effects in uniting or dividing communities and nations international relations and regional co operation changes in social and demographic structures including the role and status of women education migration and urbanization and the beliefs and cultural experiences which underpin Caribbean identity The final chapter provides an overall survey of changes in the quality of life in the Caribbean during the twentieth century Family Love in the Diaspora Mary Chamberlain, 2017-07-05 Colonial social policy in the British West Indies from the nineteenth century onward assumed that black families lacked morals structure and men a void that explained poverty and lack of citizenship African Caribbean families appeared as the mirror opposite of the ideal family advocated by the white colonial authorities Yet contrary to this image what provided continuity in the period and contributed to survival was in fact the strength of family connections their inclusivity and support This study is based on 150 life story narratives across three generations of forty five families who originated in the former British West Indies The author focuses on the particular axes of Caribbean peoples from the former British colonies of Jamaica Trinidad and Tobago and Barbados and Great Britain Divided into four parts the chapters within each present an oral history of migrant African Caribbean families demonstrating the varieties organization and dynamics of family through their memories and narratives It traces the evolution of Caribbean life argues how the family can be seen as the tool that helps transmit and transform historical mentalities examines the dynamics of family life and makes comparisons with Indo Caribbean families Above all this is a story of families that evolved against the odds of slavery and poverty to form a distinct Creole form through which much of the social history of the English speaking Caribbean is refracted Family Love in the Diaspora offers an important new perspective on African Caribbean families their history and the problems they face for now and the future It offers a long overdue historical dimension to the debates on Caribbean families Environment and Labor in the Caribbean Joseph Lisowski, 2021-10-20 The Caribbean Perspectives series began as a response to the need for scholarly investigations into social scientific and economic conditions affecting the least understood or written about part of the Americas In this second volume the authors have included explorations of aspects of management and climate as well as social literary and educational concerns in the eastern Caribbean along with an extended study of the labor situation in the U S Virgin Islands The opening chapter on resource management training in the Caribbean underscores the need for cooperation among eastern Caribbean universities and provides a practical model for implementation This is followed by a significant study of rainfall patterns that could influence economic and cultural planning in the Virgin Islands School environment is assessed in the next chapter and educators will see how the quality of social support and interactions function in organizational contexts especially as they relate to teacher morale How fact becomes fiction is chronicled in a chapter dealing with Samuel Selvon s autobiographical novel A Brighter Sun The media clearly had a serious problem separating fact from fiction in their reporting of the aftermath of Hurricane Hugo in St Croix The next chapter investigates the causes of looting following that storm and lays to rest some widespread misconceptions The final chapters focus on the labor movements in the Virgin Islands both from historical and sociological points of view These chapters not only help explain certain tendencies in the Caribbean work force but also outline social implications for the future Some of these findings are bound to be controversial such as the author s contention that the legacy of slavery is still being felt This volume of Caribbean Perspectives offers both factual accounts and challenging insights into the diversity of Caribbean life and culture The ideas and data found here will reverberate and suggest a host of analogous circumstances elsewhere This volume and the series as such will interest students of the Caribbean Latin America and social development in the Third World

The Legacy of Indian Indenture Maurits S. Hassankhan, Lomارش Roopnarine, Hans Ramsodh, 2016-11-10 This book is the second publication originating from the conference Legacy of Slavery and Indentured Labour Past present and future which was organised in June 2013 by the Institute of Graduate Studies and Research IGSR Anton de Kom University of Suriname The articles are grouped in four sections Section one concentrates on indenture in the Caribbean and the Indian Ocean and includes four diverse but inter related chapters and contributions These reveal some newly emerging impressive trends in the study of indenture essentially departing from the over used neo slave scholarship Not only are new concepts explored and analysed but this section also raises unavoidable questions on previously published studies on indenture Section two shows that there are many areas that need to be re examined and explored in the study of indenture The chapters in this section re examine personal narratives of indentured labourers the continuous connection between the Caribbean and India as well as education and Christianization of Indians in Trinidad The result is impressive The analysis of personal accounts or voices of indentured servants themselves certainly provides an alternative perception to archival information written mostly by the organizers of indenture Section three in this volume focuses on ethnicity and politics In segmented societies like Suriname Guyana and Trinidad Tobago institutional politics and political mobilization are mainly ethnically based In Suriname Trinidad Tobago and Guyana this has led to ethnic and political tensions These themes are explored in these three articles Section four addresses health medicine and spirituality themes which until recently have received little attention The first article examines the historical impact of colonialism through indentureship on the health alternatives and health preferences of Indo Trinidadians from the period between 1845 to the present The second examines the use of protective talismans by Indian indentured labourers and their descendants Little or no psychological research has been done on the spiritual world of Indian immigrants enslaved Africans and their respective descendants with special reference to the use of talismans
