The Infinite Gift Charles Yang, 2006-06-27 A child's very first word is a miraculous sound the opening note in a lifelong symphony Most parents never forget the moment But that first word is soon followed by a second and a third and by the age of three children are typically learning ten new words every day and speaking in complete sentences The process seems effortless and for children it is But how exactly does it happen How do children learn language And why is it so much harder to do later in life Drawing on cutting edge developments in biology neurology psychology and linguistics Charles Yang's The Infinite Gift takes us inside the astonishingly complex but largely subconscious process by which children learn to talk and to understand the spoken word Yang illuminates the rich mysteries of language why French newborns already prefer the sound of French to English why baby talk though often unintelligible makes perfect linguistic sense why babies born deaf still babble but with their hands why the grammars of some languages may be evolutionarily stronger than others and why one of the brain's earliest achievements may in fact be its most complex Yang also puts forth an exciting new theory Building on Noam Chomsky's notion of a universal grammar the idea that every human being is born with an intuitive grasp of grammar Yang argues that we learn our native languages in part by unlearning the grammars of all the rest This means that the next time you hear a child make a grammatical mistake it may not be a mistake at all his or her grammar may be perfectly correct in Chinese or Navajo or ancient Greek This is the brain's way of testing its options as it searches for the local and thus correct grammar and then discards all the wrong ones And we humans Yang shows are not the only creatures who learn this way In fact learning by unlearning may be an ancient evolutionary mechanism that runs throughout the animal kingdom Thus babies learn to talk in much the same way that birds learn to sing Enlivened by Yang's experiences with his own young son The Infinite Gift is as charming as it is challenging as thoughtful as it is thought provoking An absorbing read for parents educators and anyone who has ever wondered about the origins of that uniquely human gift our ability to speak and just as miraculous to understand one another Promises, Promises Annie Bryant, 2008-09-09 Who will be the next seventh grade class president at Abigail Adams Junior High Mr Popular Dillon Johnson is running and making a lot of promises that are sure to get votes The Yurtmeister s in the race too but his campaign is a joke right Class president seems like a good place for Avery to start her political career The trouble is Katani s in the race too Can the Beacon Street Girls survive the growing tension between these two supercompetitive friends And who s tearing down campaign posters and leaving mean notes about the candidates
