The authors present best practices aligned with reading and content standards and tools for developing academic talk and instructional conversations in the classroom. Special emphasis is placed on using student culture and language as a means for promoting meaningful relationships among communities of learners. The text includes tips for using the strategies for parental involvement, gathering knowledge of the student's background, and promoting social emotional learning. A companion website provides new video of the strategies being used in classrooms. Accelerating Literacy for Diverse Learners provides teachers a powerful framework to guide their decision-making processes in support of their students' sociocultural, linguistic, cognitive, and academic biographies. The book presents a varied set of strategies that actively engage students in communicating, displaying, sharing, analyzing, reflecting on, and using their own understandings to develop new understandings and gain access to a high-quality curriculum. Crossing Boundaries Patrick M. Green, Mathew Johnson, 2023-07-03 Are there better ways to address community challenges than expending funds on international service learning? In attempting to wed learning and service, are we exploiting the other for new or recycled aims? As these questions attest, all types of service learning, international service learning (ISL), most starkly illuminate the tensions between the liberatory and oppressive potentials of practice. This book explores the ramifications of realizing a new age of service learning that pushes beyond single episodic, course-based projects to rebalance student learning and community outcome priorities and provides insight into what it looks like in its execution. In describing eleven international programs designed to achieve reciprocal, sustained relationships in which learning is co-created, the contributors reveal their struggles to change the balance of power relationships and move to a more transformative practice. Common themes are the developmental nature of this work, the recognition that it takes multiple attempts often over years for an individual or an institution to get this work even nearly right that resolving the challenges of unequal resources power and privilege can never be completely erased and that attention has to be given to the micro level details What emerge are seven guiding principles that define the nature of partnerships in liberatory practice and that apply to all forms of service learning They must be strategic linked to the mission and expertise of the institution long term multifaceted allowing both partners to play a multiplicity of roles developmental in building capacities contextualized in historic and cultural understanding fully reciprocal and create the potential for community driven change In addressing the problematic nature of ISL and of service learning in general this book interrogates whether its experiences create the necessary conditions for the formation of individual values convictions and action and whether their pivotal teaching and learning moments are indeed replicable and transferable across individual institutional and even cultural contexts Its conclusions and insights will be of intense interest to administrators and practitioners alike
