Justice and Tourism Tazim Jamal, James Higham, 2021-11-17
 Research related to justice and tourism is at an early stage in tourism studies. Challenges abound due to the complex scope and scale of tourism and thus the need to transcend disciplinary boundaries to inform a phenomenon that is intricately interwoven with place and people from local to global. The contributors to this book have drawn from diverse knowledge domains including but not limited to sociology, geography, business studies, urban planning and architecture, anthropology, philosophy and management studies to inform their research. From case-based empirical research to descriptive and theoretical approaches to justice and tourism, they tackle critical issues such as social justice and gender discrimination and racism, minority and worker rights, indigenous cultural and heritage justice, including special topics like food sovereignty while post-humanistic perspectives that call us to attend to non-human others to climate justice and sustainable futures. A rich array of principles is woven within and between the chapters. The various contributions illustrate the need for continuing collaboration among researchers in the Global North and Global South to enable diverse voices and worldviews to inform the pluralism of justice and tourism as arises in this book. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Sustainable Tourism.

Critical Issues in Ecotourism James E. S. Higham, 2007

Tourism, Recreation and Climate Change C. Michael Hall, James Higham, 2005-02-24
 Climate change is one of the major issues facing us today and has been described as a threat greater than terrorism. As the world's largest industry, tourism both contributes to and will be dramatically affected by climate change. This is the first comprehensive book-level examination of the relationship between tourism and climate change of interest not only to students of tourism but to policy makers and the industry who will have to respond to the challenges posed.
