Gateways to Empire Daniel J. Weeks, 2019-07-15 In Gateways to Empire Quebec and New Amsterdam to 1664 historian Daniel Weeks has provided the first comprehensive comparative study of the North American fur trading colonies New France and New Netherland While neither colony profited very much if at all from the fur trade though many individuals' fortunes were undoubtedly made Weeks finds that New France which far outpaced New Netherland in this trade grew more slowly and had greater difficulty sustaining itself As he demonstrates in Gateways to Empire other factors including New Netherland's openness to religious and ethnic diversity and wider connections to the Atlantic World allowed it to become more economically secure than its rival north of the St. Lawrence And yet in both cases the principal towns of these European colonies Quebec and New Amsterdam moved beyond their initial purposes as hubs for trade with the indigenous peoples to become gateways to European settlement In this New Amsterdam by the late 1640s was singularly successful so that it rapidly fostered the production of new European towns in its hinterlands organizing the landscape for settlement and also for trade within the European dominated Atlantic World system

Structures of Feeling in Seventeenth-Century Cultural Expression Susan McClary, 2013-03-04 Between the waning of the Renaissance and the beginning of the Enlightenment many fundamental aspects of human behaviour from expressions of gender to the experience of time underwent radical changes While some of these transformations were recorded in words others have survived in non-verbal cultural media notably the visual arts poetry theatre music and dance Structures of Feeling in Seventeenth Century Cultural Expression explores how artists made use of these various cultural forms to grapple with human values in the increasingly heterodox world of the 1600s Essays from prominent historians musicologists and art critics examine methods of non-verbal cultural expression through the broad themes of time motion the body and global relations Together they show that seventeenth-century cultural expression was more than just an embryonic stage within Western artistic development Instead the contributors argue that this period marks some of the most profound changes in European subjectivities

Paper Sovereigns Jeffrey Glover, 2014-04-03 In many accounts of Native American history treaties are synonymous with tragedy From the beginnings of settlement Europeans made and broke treaties often exploiting Native American lack of alphabetic literacy to manipulate political negotiation But while colonial dealings had devastating results for Native people treaty making and breaking involved struggles more complex than any simple contest between invaders and victims The early colonists were often compelled to negotiate on Indian terms and treaties took a bewildering array of shapes ranging from rituals to gestures to pictographs At the same time Jeffrey Glover demonstrates treaties were international events scrutinized by faraway European audiences and framed against a background of English Spanish French and Dutch imperial rivalries To establish the meaning of their agreements colonists and Natives adapted and invented many new kinds of political representation combining rituals from tribal national and religious traditions Drawing on an archive that includes written documents printed books orations landscape markings wampum beads tally sticks and other technologies of political accounting Glover examines the powerful influence of treaty making along the vibrant and multicultural Atlantic coast of the seventeenth century

Premodern Ecologies in the Modern Literary Imagination Vin Nardizzi,Tiffany Jo Werth,2019-04-18 Premodern Ecologies in the Modern Literary Imagination explores how the cognitive and physical landscapes in which scholars conduct research write and teach have shaped their understandings of medieval and Renaissance English literary ecologies. The collection strives to practice what Ursula K Heise calls eco cosmopolitanism a method that imagines forms of local environmentalism as a defense against the interventions of open market global networks. It also expands the idea's possibilities and identifies its limitations through critical studies of premodern texts artefacts and environmental history. The essays connect real environments and their imaginative re-creations and affirm the urgency of reorienting humanity's responsiveness to and responsibility for the historical links between human and non-human existence. The discussion of ways in which meditation on scholarly place and time can deepen ecocritical work offers an innovative and engaging approach that will appeal to both ecocritics generally and to medieval and early modern scholars.
