Designs for Fund-raising Harold James Seymour, 1988      Design for Fund-raising Harold J. Seymour, 1966      Effective Fund-Raising Management Kathleen S. Kelly, 2012-12-06

In a ground breaking departure from existing works almost all of which are how to manuals based on anecdotal evidence this is the first academic textbook on fund raising By integrating practical knowledge with social science theory and research it presents a comprehensive approach to the function from its legal and ethical principles to the managerial process by which gifts are raised Territory previously uncharted in the literature is explored such as the historical and organizational contexts of contemporary practice Explanations of programs techniques and publics introduce a new system for understanding fund raising s major concepts Unlike efforts in established fields most of the material represents original scholarship undertaken to produce a first time text The book s main purpose is to teach students about fund raising a high demand high paying occupation that will continue to expand into the 21st century as the need for trained practitioners exceeds the supply During the last decade fund raising education moved into the formal classroom and away from an apprenticeship tradition of senior practitioners mentoring newcomers Yet until now there has not been a textbook to support this evolving professionalism Faculty have been reluctant to define fund raising as an academic subject in the absence of a theory based teaching resource and courses usually have been assigned to part time instructors hired from the practice This textbook addresses the void It is designed for graduate and upper level undergraduate courses dealing with fund raising as a primary or secondary subject Among its features each chapter points out research gaps and opportunities such as problems and theories for master s theses and doctoral dissertations and ends with a list of suggested readings The text is appropriate for the diverse academic areas in which fund raising nonprofit management and philanthropy are taught including public administration management arts and humanities education social work economics and sociology Because of its public relations orientation it is particularly suited for courses offered in that discipline Additional audiences are practitioners enrolled in professional development programs CEOs trustees and others interested in self study and scholars who need serious literature on the subject      The Art of Funding and Implementing Ideas Arnold R. Shore, John M. Carfora, 2010-04-07

Takes the reader to a new level in proposal writing The authors have captured the gestalt of grant writing in a lucid fashion In short I think students would appreciate the clarity and insights this book offers Robert J Hard University of Texas at San Antonio As a research scientist who is frequently involved in proposal development myself it is clear to me that the authors have travelled the grant writer s path before John V Stone Michigan State University This resource provides a step by step approach to turning a research idea into a proposal worthy of funding demystifying the process as a result The authors present a proven approach to the development of research ideas alongside a systematic treatment of proposals section by section and project management function by function Highly accessible this book gives examples for each aspect of the proposal development and works through sketches of ideas to fully developed proposal sections Key Features Contains idea development linked to specific proposal sections Supports creativity that can be captured effectively and systematically one step at a time Uses sketches to facilitate idea development and make enhancement and revisions easy Allows for ease in trying out alternative formulations and revising preliminary approaches Provides international research proposals Key to understanding resources for proposing international research collaborations Shows how to manage a funded project Guides researchers and research staff in effectively implementing a funded project This book is appropriate for all graduate students across the health social and behavioral sciences who need guidance on writing successful compelling funding proposals      Designs for Fund-Raising Harold James Seymour,1988

New Strategies for Educational Fund Raising Michael J. Worth,2002 In this sequel to the highly respected and practical 1993 book on fund raising Worth and his group of authoritative contributors cover areas that did not even exist in this field in 1993 including the concepts of principal gifts and benchmarking They adapt strategies from Worth's earlier book and introduce many new ones to meet current challenges and take advantage of new opportunities Comprising 31 chapters divided into ten logical parts the authors provide a complete picture of this field which is so important to leaders in higher education Beginning with a strong base of knowledge the authors then discuss topics ranging from raising funds from individuals creating the campaign accounting long range planning leadership the mission kickoff corporate and foundation support traditions of giving managing and supporting development programs ethical concerns and trends for the future Michael Worth gives a great deal of attention to the environment in which those responsible for advancement in higher education have to work today The book addresses new areas in the field that didn't exist when Worth wrote his first edition of this book in 1993. For example, the use of financial instruments in the planning of gift giving are more sophisticated and business techniques have been tapped to improve management of programs and measurement of success. Part II of the book describes the underlying foundations of educational fund raising in three chapters each written by an expert contributor. This section of the book describes the base of knowledge in the field, theory and research, and discusses the institutional plan and its relationship to the goals and objectives of the institution. Part V covers corporate and foundation support which is based on reasoned strategies and business plans and goals rather than on altruism and emotion which can often be the foundation for individual giving. The book also includes a glossary and a selective bibliography.

Fundraising Skills For Health Care Executives Sandra S. Deller, BA, 2000-10-16. No one prepares the new dean or health care executive for the fundraising aspect of their profession. Rather, it is one of the skills that is expected but not explicitly taught. Here, a former Dean and a Director of Major Gifts for a renowned nursing institution with a combined 50 years in the profession present an explicit, hands-on guide to successful fundraising among individuals, foundations, and corporations. From the basic principles of development to the specifics of tax regulations and the sometimes delicate matter of stewardship, this book articulates strategies for success. Case studies, extensive support materials, and illustrative tables make this an accessible and indispensable tool for health care executives.

The New Fundraisers Beth Breeze, 2017-10-30. Charitable fundraising has become ever more urgent in a time of extensive public spending cuts. However, while the identity and motivation of those who donate comes under increasingly close scrutiny, little is known about the motivation and characteristics of the askers, despite almost every donation being solicited or prompted in some way. This is the first empirically grounded and theorised account of the identity, characteristics, and motivation of fundraisers in the UK. Based on original data collected during a 3-year study of over 1,200 fundraisers, the book argues that it is not possible to understand charitable giving without accounting for the role of fundraising.
