Producing Good Citizens Amy J. Wan, 2014-03-30 Recent global security threats economic instability and political uncertainty have placed great scrutiny on the requirements for U S citizenship The stipulation of literacy has long been one of these criteria In Producing Good Citizens Amy J Wan examines the historic roots of this phenomenon looking specifically to the period just before World War I up until the Great Depression During this time the United States witnessed a similar anxiety over the influx of immigrants economic uncertainty and global political tensions Early on educators bore the brunt of literacy training while also being charged with producing the right kind of citizens by imparting civic responsibility and a moral code for the workplace and society Literacy quickly became the credential to gain legal economic and cultural status In her study Wan defines three distinct pedagogical spaces for literacy training during the 1910s and 1920s Americanization and citizenship programs sponsored by the federal government union sponsored programs and first year university writing programs Wan also demonstrates how each literacy program had its own motivation the federal government desired productive citizens unions needed educated members to fight for labor reform and university educators looked to aid social mobility Citing numerous literacy theorists Wan analyzes the correlation of reading and writing skills to larger currents within American society She shows how early literacy training coincided with the demand for laborers during the rise of mass manufacturing while also providing an avenue to economic opportunity for immigrants This fostered a rhetorical link between citizenship productivity and patriotism Wan supplements her analysis with an examination of citizen training books labor newspapers factory manuals policy documents public deliberations on citizenship and literacy and other materials from the period to reveal the goal and rationale behind each program Wan relates the enduring bond of literacy and citizenship to current times by demonstrating the use of literacy to mitigate economic inequality and its lasting value to a productivity based society Today as in the past educators continue to serve as an integral part of the literacy training and citizen making process Atlantic Citizens Leslie Eckel,2013-02-28 This book uncovers startling contributions to transatlantic culture and makes the argument that literature is dependent upon other modes of professional creativity in order to thrive Rethinking Transnationalism Ludger Pries,2008-08-18 This book presents theoretical contributions to the transnationalism approach and offers empirical studies in the field of the transnationalization of organizations European Multiculturalisms Anna Triandafyllidou,2011-11-30 This book explores the issue of migrants Muslims integration and citizenship in Europe Migration Policy and Practice Harald Bauder,Christian Matheis,2016-04-29 Building on contemporary efforts to theorize conflicts related to borders migration and belonging this book transforms existing analyses in order to propose critical interventions The chapters are written from multiple disciplinary perspectives and present rigorous empirical and theoretical analyses to advocate progressive transformation COVID-19 J. Michael Ryan,2021-03-29 The SARS CoV 2 virus commonly referred to as COVID 19 is perhaps the greatest threat to life and lifestyles around the world in more than a century Although there is little global agreement on many issues related to the virus there is widespread agreement that the actual number of cases both of those infected and of those who have died as a result of infection is certainly much higher than official numbers suggest The impact of the virus however has spread well beyond the realm of the medical also heavily impacting social cultural economic political and quotidian ways of living for nearly every human being on the planet The two edited volumes in this set contribute to a broader understanding of the impact COVID 19 is having and will have on our understandings efforts and decisions of the future of global society
