Music in America's Cold War Diplomacy Danielle Fosler-Lussier, 2015-04-30 During the Cold War thousands of musicians from the United States traveled the world sponsored by the U S State Department s Cultural Presentations program Performances of music in many styles classical rock n roll folk blues and jazz competed with those by traveling Soviet and mainland Chinese artists enhancing the prestige of American culture These concerts offered audiences around the world evidence of America s improving race relations excellent musicianship and generosity toward other peoples Through personal contacts and the media musical diplomacy also created subtle musical social and political relationships on a global scale Although born of state sponsored tours often conceived as propaganda ventures these relationships were in themselves great diplomatic achievements and constituted the essence of America s soft power Using archival documents and newly collected oral histories Danielle Fosler Lussier shows that musical diplomacy had vastly different meanings for its various participants including government officials musicians concert promoters and audiences Through the stories of musicians from Louis Armstrong and Marian Anderson to orchestras and college choirs Fosler Lussier deftly explores the value and consequences of musical diplomacy

Architecture of Great Expositions 1937-1959 Rika Devos, Alexander Ortenberg, 2016-03-09 This book investigates architecture as a form of diplomacy in the context of the Second World War at six major European international and national expositions that took place between 1937 and 1959 The volume gives a fascinating account of architecture assuming the role of the carrier of war related messages some of them camouflaged while others quite frank The famous standoffs between the Stalinist Russia and the Nazi Germany in Paris 1937 or the juxtaposition of the USSR and USA pavilions in Brussels 1958 are examples of very explicit shows of force The book also discusses some less known and more subtle messages revealed through an examination of several additional pavilions in both Paris and Brussels of a series of expositions in Moscow of the Universal Exhibition in Rome that was planned to open in 1942 and of London s South Bank Exposition of 1951 all of them related in one way or another to either an anticipation of the global war or to its horrific aftermaths A brief discussion of three pre World War II American expositions that are reviewed in the Epilogue supports this point It indicates a significant difference in the attitude of American exposition commissioners who were less attuned to the looming war than their European counterparts The book provides a novel assessment of modern architecture s involvement with national representation Whether in the service of Fascist Italy or of Imperial Japan of Republican Spain or of the post war Franquista regime of the French Popular Front or of socialist Yugoslavia of the arising FRG or of capitalist USA of Stalinist Russia or of post colonial Britain exposition architecture during the period in question was driven by a deep faith in its ability to represent ideology The book argues that this widespread confidence in architecture s ability to act as a propaganda tool was one of the reasons why Modernist architecture lent itself to the service of such
