Civic Engagement And The Baby Boomer Generation Research Policy And Practice Perspectives:

Civic Engagement and the Baby Boomer Generation Laura B. Wilson, Sharon Simson, 2006 As the Baby Boomer Generation enters old age they have the expectation that they will remain useful and will continue to contribute to their communities This book discusses how local communities can embrace and benefit from their participation Civic Engagement and the Baby Boomer Generation Laura Wilson, 2012-10-12 Discover a vital source of volunteers for your organization By the year 2020 there will be 65 million people aged 65 and over living in the United States a new generation of active older adults expecting to use the expertise experience and life skills they've gained to make valuable contributions to society in their retirement years Civic Engagement and the Baby Boomer Generation presents the latest research findings and evaluation studies that help promote a thorough understanding of the programs policies and civic opportunities available to people aged 50 and older This unique book is an essential resource for nonprofit organizations seeking to meet their needs with a generation of volunteers eager to explore new options work in new capacities and continue lifelong learning More than any previous generation baby boomers born between 1946 and 1964 are defying stereotypes about aging while seeking new and meaningful lifestyles Civic Engagement and the Baby Boomer Generation defines an agenda for future policy research and practice to help reverse the well documented decline in civic engagement in the United States providing older Americans with opportunities to have an impact in their local national and global communities The book's contributors focus attention on the value of civic engagement in creating vital social capital and social networks Civic Engagement and the Baby Boomer Generation examines current issues and trends in civic engagement results from senior corps examinations expanding youth service concepts lifelong learning institutes the relationship between civic engagement and leadership issues in elder service and volunteerism outcomes of a national agenda setting meeting intergenerational relations and civic engagement Civic Engagement and the Baby Boomer Generation is an important source of information for anyone working with nonprofit government and corporate organizations concerned with public policy community affairs volunteerism research practice and education Baby Boomers of Color Melvin Delgado, 2014-11-18 Because researchers often treat baby boomers of color as belonging to one group quality data on the individual status of specific racial populations is lacking leading to insufficiently designed programs policies and services The absence of data is a testament to the invisibility of baby boomers of color in society and deeply affects the practice of social work and other helping professions that require culturally sensitive approaches Melvin Delgado rectifies this injustice by providing a comprehensive portrait of the status and unique assets of boomers of color Using specific data he grounds an understanding of boomers financial medical and emotional needs within a historical socioeconomic cultural and political context resulting in tailored recommendations for meeting the challenges of a growing population His research focuses on African American Hispanic Asian Pacific Islander and Native American older adults and addresses issues of financial security employment stability housing and health care which are often complicated by linguistic and cultural differences Rather than treat baby boomers of color as a financial burden on society and its resources Delgado recognizes their strengths and positive contributions to families and communities resulting in an affirming and empowering approach to service Women and Positive Aging Lisa Hollis-Sawyer, Amanda Dykema-Engblade, 2016-03-03 Women and Positive Aging An International Perspective presents the noted research in the fields of psychology gerontology and gender studies reflecting the increasingly popular and pervasive positive aging issues of women in today s society from different cohorts backgrounds and life situations Each section describes a bridge between the theoretical aspects and practical applications of the theory that is consistent with the scientist practitioner training model in psychology including case studies and associated intervention strategies with older women in each chapter In addition to incorporating current research on aging women s issues each section provides the reader with background about the topic to give context and perspective Examines a comprehensive range of issues for aging women Details current research trends Encompasses a holistic model of women s aging Ranges from physical and mental health in response to aging changes to social relationships and sexuality Presents a how to put research into practice section in each chapter Focuses on topical issues that are relevant to women wanting to optimize their life outcomes as they live on average longer than ever before

Older Adult-Led Health Promotion in Urban Communities Melvin Delgado,2008-12-16 The subject of how best to address the current and future health needs of older adult residents in this country's urban marginalized communities is one that has also received considerable attention in academic policy and practice arenas in the past decade. A variety of models have been put forth to achieve the goal of health in these communities, but one of the most promising recommendations has been the use of health promotion as a vehicle for reaching and empowering communities of color in both rural and urban America. Older adult-led interventions, as addressed in various sections of this book, is one of the latest and most promising approaches towards health promotion that is grass roots and community participatory based. Older adult-led health promotion represents an emerging field with tremendous implications for addressing the health needs of marginalized urban older adults in the United States and international
